Forest Fires Sift Their Ashes Upon Edmonton Streets

Wind Aids 70 In Fight For Safety

GOLDFIELDS, June 22—Sweeping down from the west in billowing clouds of smoke and flame which at times threatened to engulf the force of tired firefighters endeavoring to hold it in check, a dangerous bush fire which for a time perilled this frontier mining settlement was apparently held on Tuesday night less than a mile from the settlement.

A change of wind early this morning gave the 75 fire-fighters conscripted from the mining camp under the leadership of Fire Ranger Tom Smith a chance to head off the blaze which has raged since Sunday, and although the danger is not yet fully averted the men have a breathing space. They are still standing by snatching sleep and meals in relays.

IN DRY SLASH

The fire started in dry slash on Beaver Lodge Portage and destroyed a high tension cable along the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's hydro line. Consider-

CHIEFS WILL PRESS FIGHT FOR PENSIONS

Convention To Take Case Of Police Pensions Direct To Ottawa

A determination to carry the fight for police pensions direct to Ottawa, and to keep pressing for them until something is done to provide the men who protect society with security and comfort for their old age, was made by the 60 police chiefs from all parts of the Dominion attending the Chief Constables' Association of Canada convention meeting held in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday afternoon.

The discussion on pensions arose out of an address prepared by Brig.-Gen. D. C. Draper, C.M.G., D.S.O., chief constable of Toronto, which was read by Chief Ernie Goodman of Hamilton, in which Chief Draper advocated a system of pensions so that "our aged and incapacitated would receive proper care and treatment when they were no longer fit for active service."

FEDERAL CONTROL

Speaking in support of a pension scheme, Chief David Ritchie of Calgary recommended that the convention appoint a strong committee which would go straight to Ottawa and lay the case squarely before the government. He advo-

PRIME MINISTER DENIES DUCE IS DRIVING WEDGE

LONDON, June 22—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Italy was anxious to put into effect the Anglo-Italian agreement covering Mediterranean issues but denied Rome was trying to "drive a wedge" between Great Britain and France.

The prime minister's statement, replying to opposition questions, was made after receipt of news of the bombing and sinking of two more British merchantmen by an unidentified air raider at Valencia.

From Mr. Chamberlain's previous statement it was clear Great Britain would do nothing to retaliate for the repeated sinkings of British ships by planes which the London government believes to be Italian craft in the service of the Spanish insurgents. The latest victims were the freighters Thorpeness and Sunion.

MELBOURNE, Aus., June 21 — Clarence James Dennis, 62, Australian author and poet, died today.

Acrid Smoke From Burning Spreads Through the City Byways — Residue Floats in Air.

Seven hundred fire-fighters went "over the top" on Wednesday on various fronts throughout Alberta in an effort to stem the advance of fires raging in many sections. Under the personal direction of J. A. Hutchinson, assistant director of provincial forestry, the counter-attack on the fires spread out fan-wise from Peace River. Additional equipment was rushed northward from this city as reports of three new fires reached the forestry branch of the provincial lands and mines department.

Edmonton, in common with other Alberta centres, was in "twilight" city yesterday, and at dawn this morning gave promise of further evidence of the great fires which are burning both north and south of this city.

Blazing timberlands sent a smoke-pall rolling over the city to black-out the sun throughout the day.

The longest day of the year, acrid smoke from burning pine timbers spread through city streets and on the outskirts of Calgary, earlier in the day, aches drifted down. It was a mile-thick blanket of smoke. North of the little village of

FIGHT AGAINST CRIME MAKING RAPID STRIDES

Public Must Co-Operate With Police United States G-Man Says

In the future, law enforcement will concern itself more and more with crime prevention and detection, and apprehension will then be simple matters," predicted N. J. L. Pieper, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, San Francisco, in an address given to the Chief Constables' Association at the Wednesday morning session of the convention now in progress at the Macdonald hotel.

"The campaign against crime is slow but sure," stated the 29-year-old ex-lawyer as he spoke of the fight now being waged against crime in the United States.

DIFFICULT BATTLE

By treating law enforcement as a science and by approaching the problems of crime in a scientific manner great progress is being made," he said, "but until the public realize it is their duty to cooperate with the police and until police departments and police organizations learn to work closer

Gotham Gambler Shot And Killed

NEW YORK, June 22 — Frank Sunco, 35, known to police as "Mustang and Chops," and described by them as a small-time gambler, was shot to death last night by three or four men who invaded a Bronx social club where he was playing pinochle with two other men.

Lone Raider Sinks More British Ships

VALENCIA, Spain, June 22.—Two British ship were sunk just outside Valencia harbor today by a lone sky raider in a continuation of the long series of attacks on foreign shipping in ports of government Spain.

The 3,054-ton Sunion, British ship formerly of Greek registry, struck by incendiary and explosive bombs, burned furiously for six hours and then settled to the bottom.

Previously the 4,719-ton freighter Thorpeness, shattered by an aerial torpedo, had gone down with 7,000 tons of grain.

All the Sunion's crew of 32, including a German observer for the non-intervention committee, were taken off safely.

After torpedoing the Thorpeness, the plane returned and machine-gunned her, splintering the captain's cabin.

Today's attacks brought to 54 the total of airplane attacks on British ships since the Spanish war started — nearly half in the last three months.

$30,000 FOR LIGHT PLANT IS APPROVED

Commissioners Instructed To Negotiate For Civic Improvement Loan

Capital expenditure of $30,000 on new equipment for the electric light department was approved by city council at a special meeting posed capital construction program Tuesday when considering a proposed $363,000.

Commissioners were also instructed to negotiate with Ottawa authorities with a view to obtaining as soon as possible Edmonton's share of the $30,000,000 federal loan available to Canadian municipalities to assist them in carrying out self-liquidating public works. It is estimated Edmonton's portion will be approximately $230,000.

ONE ITEM

While commissioners proposed a total capital improvement program of $363,000, council Monday authorized only the $30,000 expenditure for the light department. Expenditure of the balance will be considered at a later date.

Improvements for the electric light department are: two 2,000 K. V. A. transformers substations, $12,000; light and power extension, $5,000; street lighting extensions, $3,000; meters, $2,500; West End substation, $5,000; reserve, $2,500.

It was explained that originally $1,321,000 had been provided for

JOBLESS AGAIN UNDER ARREST SEEKING ALMS

VANCOUVER, June 22—Police started arresting single unemployed on charges of police obstruction today as the city council released a resolution adopted yesterday urging the British Columbia government to take immediate action to provide for jobless now in the province.

Spokesmen for the Relief Project Workers' Union announced 500 men had been stationed at downtown street corners, asking contributions from the general public.

The men gave out tags inscribed: "I support a works program."

Constables were dispatched to arrest the jobless on charges of obstructing police if they did not obey orders to "move on."

Mother Of Queen Is Ill

LONDON, June 22—The Countess of Strathmore, mother of Queen Elizabeth, is gravely ill at her London residence, it was announced today.

Lady Rose Leverson-Gower, sister of the Queen and wife of the lieutenant-governor of the Isle of Man, Vice-Admiral William Leveson-Gower, left Douglas airdrome this morning to come to her mother's bedside.

Lady Strathmore, who is 76, was ill in April, but recovered quickly.

CHAMBERLAIN STILL IN HAZE OVER BOMBINGS

Prime Minister Not Out Of Woods In Satisfying People

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, June 22—That Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is not yet out of the woods as far as satisfying the British public that the government is unable to prevent the bombing of British ships by airplanes, operated by German and Italian aviators and operating from rebel bases.

This is apparent from newspaper comment on Tuesday's meeting of the House of Commons when the Prime Minister is due to make another statement.

Since April 22 British ships have been bombed, with underwriters' losses running into the millions.

HELEN WINNER AT WIMBLEDON: BUDGE SUCCEEDS

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22 —After a three-year lapse, Helen Wills Moody opened her bid for an eighth Wimbledon tennis championship today by eliminating Mrs. Harry Hopman of Australia, 6-3, 6-4, in a second-round match.

Don Budge settled into his best tennis stride after a wobbly start and whipped Henry Billington, Berkshire farmer, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1, in the second round of the all-England championships.

Alice Marble, former United States titleholder, moved into the fourth round of women's singles by defeating Sheilah Piercy of South Africa, 6-4, 6-0.

Dorothy May Bundy of California, who holds the Australian championship, won a second round match from Miss F. Ford of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-2.

Tale of Mountain Ash and Befuddled Driver

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Forest All Way Home

He's one of the lads of the village, and in addition to having a cottage at Cooking Lake is by way of being a gardener of note.

Seeking a splash of color for the cottage garden on Saturday he purchased a mountain ash, and having no other way to get it out to the lake, had it secured to the top of his car. The tree, being of good size, hung over the front of the car considerably, but at the time this was not considered a handicap.

However, what with meeting a friend or two and having to talk over this and that here and there, the start for Cooking Lake was delayed, and by the time it was made, the car driver had forgotten all about his purchase of the mountain ash. It was not until he reached Cooking Lake and saw the tree still tied firmly to the top of the car that he realized that the trees he had been dodging all the way out to the lake were not growing on the roadside after all.

"I bet I twisted in and out among the trees for a hundred miles on the way out here," he said with a sigh.

Stevens Plea Co-operation Minus Interference As Basis National Prosperity

Thoughtful Observers Alarmed Seeking Some Principle Capable of Universal Adaptation Declares Member

TORONTO, June 22.—Canada's problems today are not so much legal and constitutional as economic and social, and it is not more law that is wanted to cope with them, but more mathematics and actuarial calculations, said Hon. H. H Stevens, former minister of Trade and Commerce in the Bennett government and head of the Reconstruction party, in addressing the Kiwanis Club of Toronto.

Mr. Stevens was speaking on "Co-operation," which he said, meant co-operation without interference.

"Co-operation assumes the will to achieve as I mean it," he said, "Its application will demand the sacrifice of self-interests in the common good. It means toleration and loyalty in the highest sense."

Applying the principle as outlined to national problems Mr. Stevens pointed out that Canada's constitutional problem today had degenerated into a hopelessly involved legal wrangle over the interpretation of certain clauses of the B.N.A. Act.

"But if we would catch the real spirit of our constitution it would be found in the preamble to the B.N.A. Act which reads 'Whereas the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have expressed their desire to be united into one Dominion under the Crown of the United Kingdom and Ireland with a constitution similar to that of the United Kingdom.

"This preamble expresses what is the very essence of the spirit of co-

Mystery Veil Hides Death Of Girl, 20

Florence Jydstrup, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jydstrup, farmers 10 miles west of Thorhild, was found dead by her brother Charles Tuesday morning in a lonely cabin about three miles from her home. Meagre details did not say from what cause the girl died but Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers from the Thorhild detachment are out investigating.

The cabin in which the girl's body was found, is owned by Jack Stinson, a friend of the girl's. Stinson is reported to be away working on a farm at the present time.

According to word reaching Edmonton Wednesday morning, the girl left home Sunday afternoon to visit the Stinson cabin. She returned home and then went back to the cabin in the evening saying that she had "forgotten something."

When she failed to return home Monday morning her brother went to look for her. He arrived at the cabin Monday evening, but owing to darkness apparently did not find his sister. Returning early Tuesday morning he found the girl's body lying on the floor of the cabin.

The Jydstrups have resided in the Thorhild district for the past two years, formerly having resided in the Sunday Lake district near Cadogan.

Thorhild is 68 miles north of Edmonton on the Northern Alberta Railways.

F. D. R. THROWS GREAT RECOVERY FUND IN GEAR

HYDE PARK, N.Y., June 22— President Roosevelt threw into gear today a $3,750,000,000 machine designed to prime commerce and aid the needy, asserting as he acted that United States industry and agriculture already are improved.

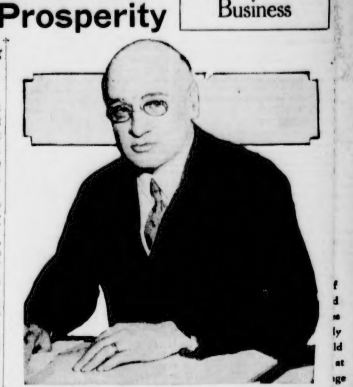

Business—and he included farming in the term—is not and has not been as bad as a lot of people believed it to be, the president said.

At one point in his interview with the press, by request he authorized the newsmen to quote him directly, something he seldom permits.

"As somebody remarked the other day there have been a few raindrops coming from the heavens," he said, "and possibly they will be followed with a much-needed shower."

That was the president's answer to a question whether he believed business had scraped bottom in its downward trend. He side-stepped an inquiry about when the shower would come.

Government —Vs.— Business

Business is suspicious of government and governments are suspicious of business, says Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P., above. Employers and employees mistrust each other, so what to do?

LONDON'S VEIL OF STEEL GETS SEVERE TEST

Balloon Barrier Is Demonstrated In 40-Mile Gale

By WEBB MILLER

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, June 22—London's fantastic "curtain of steel" five miles above the Metropolis to ward off enemy aircraft has been tried out and authorities believe that it will be effective.

The balloon barrier was demonstrated successfully in a 40-mile wind, but only 12 of the projected 450 balloons were used.

The government has called for 6,000 volunteers to man the sausage balloons, which are expected to rise above 25,000 feet, trailing steel cables which would entangle any airplanes flying below the steel apron. Hundreds of volunteers have enrolled in the balloon corps.

Stroke of Pen to Commandeer Whole British Food Supply

Distribution Organization Completed in the Event of War—Sir Henry French Will Be Dictator

By WEBB MILLER

British United Press—Exclusive Cable to The Bulletin.

LONDON, June 22.—At one stroke of the pen the entire food resources of Great Britain will be commandeered in the event of war. A food dictator will be appointed and Great Britain's 45,000,000 will be placed on strict rations at controlled prices.

The government has completed a food distribution organization which is ready to function instantly. Millions of ration books are being printed. Experiments are being made to produce a nourishing loaf of bread with a minimum of flour.

If war broke out today the food doctor would be Sir Henry French, chief of the board of trade defense plans department. For two years he has worked on plans for an organization to handle the food problem during war.

The British do not intend to be caught unprepared as they were in the world war when they almost starved during the winter of 1917-18.

MILLIONS REMEMBER

Millions here remember the days when German submarines were sinking hundreds of thousands of tons of shipping monthly. Meat was permitted only twice a week. Sugar was drastically rationed. Few got enough to eat.

The government is filling an enormous war chest of food stuffs. It is buying 250,000 tons of frozen meats for cold storage as

Railway Employees Voice Opposition To Disturbing Present Set-Up

XPANSION IS PROPOSED BY A. R. MOSHER

rouble Lies In Canada's Disturbed Economic System, Claim

OTTAWA, June 22—Opposition any interference with the present set-up of Canadian railways as voiced in the senate railway committee Tuesday by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees.

Presenting a brief on behalf of the Brotherhood, President A. R. Mosher said: "Instead of tearing up railway tracks, abandoning communities and throwing railway workers out of employment, the railways of Canada should be encouraged to expand their mileage in sections of the country which are now inadequately served and to improve their physical equipment and provide increased opportunities for employment.

OYANT FAITH

"The policy which Canada needs is one of construction, not destruction, of progress and not mobility. reason: one of buoyant faith in the possibilities of the future rather than dejection and despair."

Mr. Mosher contended there is nothing wrong with the physical set-up of the railways or with the policies of railway management. The railways would be prosperous and profitable if Canada's entire economic system was functioning properly.

"In the opinion of the brotherhood there can be no final solution the problem of industry and of the railways until the present economic system is re-organized in such a manner that every citizen will be able to obtain employment and earn sufficient income to maintain himself and his dependents with work, leisure, and products equitably shared."

INES OF STUDY

The brotherhood suggested three lines of investigation which the committee might profitably follow. They are:

"1—The possibility of reducing the rate of interest on the Canadian national indebtedness. This would relieve the burden on those who can bear it—the bondholders—rather than upon the railway employees who cannot do so.

"2—The regulation of competitive forms of transport. Not only in Canada but in many other countries, it has been found that unregulated highway competition is taking from the railways commodities on which comparatively high rates had been paid, have paid deeply into railway earnings. The railway rates are subject to complete regulation, while highway transports as well as transport by water and by air, has been almost wholly unregulated.

"3—Reduction of passenger and freight rates, in such a manner as to permit the railways to earn a reasonable rate upon their capital investment.

Railway Labor Still Is Uneasy

OTTAWA, June 22—Railway labor does not consider sufficiently definite the pledge given by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, covering compensation for displaced railwaymen if unification is effected W. L. Best, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, told the senate railways committee Tuesday.

The sessions Tuesday were given consequent hardship.

PEN STROKE WILL CONTROL BRITISH FOOD

a national reserve. Experts estimate it can be kept for four years.

Other hoards include 3,000,000 tons of wheat, 400,000 tons of sugar and 100,000 tons of whale oil tuse ful for margarine, soap and explosives). Unknown quantities of war metals, nickel and manganese, are now being accumulated secretly.

Normally there is only about six week's supply of wheat in England, which imports half of its meat, 90 per cent of its wheat, 70 per cent of its sugar, cheese and fruit, and 90 per cent of its fats.

The war plans include commandeering instantly all food stocks in the hands of dealers and cargoes afloat.

Distribution will be controlled by 1,300 local food control committees of 15 national areas under one central controller or dictator.

ALL REGISTERED

In connection with distribution every transport vehicle in the nation is being registered. Every retailer will be licensed. A survey of all food stuffs on the nation has been completed.

Wholesalers and manufacturers would act as government agents to supply retailers at controlled prices. A director of supplies would be appointed for each commodity.

Because of London's vulnerability of air attacks the government is moving its wheat largely in silos in West England and its meat in the warehouses of Liverpool and Manchester.

The government has also arranged huge petroleum and gasoline storage depots for war purposes. Underground tanks have been constructed at Purfleet down the Thames and away from the congested area where an explosion or fire-caused freight incalculable damage to the great warehouses on the river banks.

SCIENTISTS STUDY

Scientists are studying the possibility of using smoke screens to hide vital food distribution centres, especially on the Thames and also to protect important industrial and munitions plants.

Work has been started on projects to protect important power stations, aerials and docks and £1,000,000 will be spent to safeguard water and gas supplies.

Although she started her preparations late, compared to the totalitarian nations, Britain is determined to catch up. It remains to be seen whether a democratic voluntary system will function as efficiently as the dictators' compulsory service.

FOREST FLAME ASHES FALLING ON EDMONTON

Sunday, in the Cremona district, 80 miles to the southwest of Calgary, bush country was ablaze but an aerial survey disclosed the flames were racing through woodlands in a sparsely settled area.

No towns were in danger, said reports from Cremona, and fears for the safety of Caroline, a village of 50 population were unfounded. The village was smoke-shrouded, but the fires were a considerable distance from the tiny farm-timber settlement.

Earlier in the day it was feared workmen at a dozen sawmills in the Cremona-Big Prairie area might be in danger but later reports said they were far from the fire zone. All districts reported visibility down to less than a mile as smoke still hovered over the foothills today.

NO RAIN IN NORTH

Officials of the forestry branch of the provincial lands and mines department reported on Wednesday that latest reports said no rain had fallen in any part of the Peace River territory and there was no sign or indication of any.

Information to hand was that the situation throughout the area was unchanged.

A. A. Hutchinson, assistant director of forestry, is still grounded at Peace River.

Crews are busily engaged in various sections of the fire-stricken areas and, while mostly holding their own, are finding it increasingly difficult under the prolonged dry conditions.

NEW BLAZE REPORTED

One new fire was reported on the upper Notikewin River, while another was sited along the Keg river.

Still another new fire was reported as blazing on the north shore of Lesser Slave Lake near the Narrows.

Mr. Hutchinson, in a report to T. F. Bledgen, district chief of forestry, on Wednesday stated that the situation throughout the north is still "extremely bad."

Mr. Hutchinson reported that he is still grounded at Peace River on account of smoke and he is covering the territory as best he can by air and bicycle.

SITUATION GRAVE

"The situation is extremely bad in practically all districts except Fort Vermilion, south of Grande Prairie and the High Prairie area," said Mr. Hutchinson in his report.

He also reported that visibility is poor, making detection of new fires most difficult.

Rain which commenced falling in this city at 1:15 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon broke situation slightly in this city and early reports were that the precipitation was more local in character and did not extend far afield.

Officials however, are hopeful that the extent will be great and that the afflicted areas will benefit.

Rain Clouds Give Calgary Hope For Fire Abatement

CALGARY, June 22—Rain clouds hovered over Calgary this morning dense smoke which drifted in from the northwest forest fire zone Tuesday. A shift in the wind to the southeast during the night rolled the smoke blanket from over the city to be followed by black clouds moving in from the south and east.

Any way an anonymous artist looked at Hitler and the Nazi regime, he saw war on the face of it. So he painted the "portrait" of the Fuehrer shown above, using fighting soldiers for the eyes, ears and face, and a drooping steel-helmeted corpse for the moustache and mouth. The picture was hung at the annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists in New York.

CHIEFS WILL PRESS FIGHT FOR PENSIONS

cated the federal control of police, so that the forces would be out of the control of municipal politicians, and so that a federal pension scheme for police could be arranged.

At the conclusion of the meeting a committee consisting of George Shea, chief investigator for the Canadian National Railways, Chief Ernie Goodman, Chief David Ritchie, and General Draper, who would be chairman, was named to investigate the pensions question.

BETTER CO-OPERATION

Chief G. M. Donald of Saskatoon, speaking on "The Police and the Public," made a plea for better co-operation and understanding between police and the public.

"The police should attempt to remove the suspicion with which they are often regarded by the public by a consistent line of just and fair action and should attempt to obtain the aid of the public by educational projects," he said. He advocated a system of school lectures by police so that the youth of Canada could be brought up to understand that policemen are for the protection of everybody and are the friends of the citizen, not an enemy.

Deputy Chief George Guthrie of Toronto, speaking on this question also advocated the system of having constables and officers lecture in schools on such subjects as "safety" and "the futility of crime."

TRAINING SCHOOLS

"Police Training Schools" were discussed in a paper given by Charlie Barnes, assistant director of police in Montreal.

"Police training schools are the foundation of all efficient and capable police departments," stated Director Barnes, "and are the foundation of discipline and morale." He advocated careful and extensive examinations, with also regular refresher courses for policemen.

It was found that military drill was valuable for discipline and he laid stress on the necessity of developing character among the police recruits, of teaching them the art of self-defense and of training them in the use and care of their weapons. He also advocated having officers who can swim in waterfront patrols.

MAGISTRATE SPEAKS

Because the constables evidence is often the only thing on which the court can base a decision in a case, young constables should be trained to present evidence properly and fairly, offered Magistrate A. H. Gibson, K.C., of Edmonton in an address to the convention.

Canadian police forces have been successful in creating honorable traditions. These should be fostered and maintained," said Magistrate Gibson. Policemen today are chosen for mental qualifications and ability rather than for mere brawn, he said.

LONDON'S VEIL OF STEEL GETS SEVERE TEST

Proponents of the balloon barrier assert that the steel curtain will keep the enemy so high that he will be unable to bomb accurately, but he will still be within range of anti-aircraft guns and fighting planes.

The government has developed a 37-millimeter anti-aircraft gun which it is claimed is remarkably effective in an altitude of more than 35,000 feet. Hundreds of the guns will be placed in the London area.

In addition to active defense, passive defense plans have been advanced. Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, recently estimated that trench systems and dugouts to be built in the parks could shelter 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 persons. He reported that 32,000,000 sandbags had been accumulated and 275,000,000 more ordered.

Thousands of residents owning gardens have been building their private trenches, on advice of the government that a narrow trench is their best protection against explosive bombs.

$30,000 FOR LIGHT PLANT IS APPROVED

capital construction work, as follows: funds carried over from 1937, $291,000; available from 1938 sinking fund, $800,000; proposed federal loan, $230,000.

Of this, $596,000 has already been authorized by council, as follows: telephone department, $298,000; power plant, $245,000; engineers' department, $115,000

This leaves $365,000 still unexpended, the proposed allocation being: street railway, $150,000; electric light department, $30,000; waterworks department, $20,000; city engineer's department and reserve, $155,000.

Commissioners informed council they were unable to make a definite recommendation with regard to the total expenditure of $365,000 "until we know whether we are to get $250,000 or more from the Dominion government or not."

They recommended, however, the $30,000 program for the electric light department.

TO NEGOTIATE

Council concurred in this recommendation and the rider that commissioners be authorized to negotiate with Ottawa for the purpose of obtaining the federal loan as soon as possible. This motion was moved by Ald. A. Bisset.

Ald. J. T. McCreath questioned the policy of using departmental reserves for improvement work, maintaining that funds for this purpose were provided by the Forbin plan through the release of city sinking fund assets. He believed the program should be financed through the sinking funds, departmental reserves being built up and untouched until the time when there would be no sinking funds to fall back on.

NOT PLANNED

Commissioner Robert J. Gibb explained that the city never contemplated using sinking fund money for utility department renewals, and that money for this purpose came out of reserves. Through this policy the city avoided capitalizing expenditures, being able to meet renewal expenses out of reserves.

Commissioner John Hodgson explained that money available from the sinking fund was applied to other projects, but not

Lloyd's of London are considering entering a $70,000,000 damage suit action against the Franco government for losses sustained through ships being bombed by the rebels in Spanish government ports and feeling is running high.

Showing how such bombings are generally regarded in Great Britain The Sunday Times says: "These ships of ours which are being bombed are not breaking the law by being where they were . . . they have been sunk on bare suspicion for no other offence than being where they had a good right to be . . . there never was a clearer case of a legal wrong being done a great naval power on an element where it is most sensitive to injury . . . it is necessary to show the world the full gravity of these outrages, because whatever settlement that may be made we have not the slightest intention of abandoning any legal point on a position which is so vital to us.

DAMAGING RAIDS

"By far the much most damaging raids on this country would be successful attacks on ships loading or unloading in our harbors, and if these can be carried on with impunity, sea power will have been conquered in the most effective terms to those to which we have been accustomed."

Scrutator, writing in The Times, approves Prime Minister Chamberlain's present stand but warns that "if the law of air warfare is left in its present anarchic state the standard of equality with the next power in Europe will no more satisfy us in the air than it satisfied the last generation on the sea."

IN SAME CATEGORY

Meanwhile Vice Admiral C. Osborne says the government is unwise to try to establish precedents against such bombings at the present time, since Great Britain herself may be in the position of General Franco in another war.

The discussion, now waxing warm, follows a big advertisement put forward by The Times and elsewhere on Sunday calling attention to the number of British ships sunk, and the number of British seamen killed, in Spanish waters.

Nova Scotians Now Taking Up New Housing Plan

HALIFAX, June 22—A venture in co-operative housing was launched today for the Cape Breton coal-mining town of Reserve by the Nova Scotia Housing Commission.

The scheme will start off with 12 houses. Laid out on modern lines, the little settlement will have a parkway running through the property and a central green for play, a community garden and tree plot. There will be a large playground for children.

Monthly payments for interest and amortization will be exceptionally low.

Lost Continent Of Oil Bearing Sands Located

British United Press

NEW YORK, June 22—Discovery of an ancient "lost continent" in northern New Mexico which may lead to the disclosure of new petroleum pools and ore deposits is announced by the Geological Society of America.

Evidence of the continent, believed to have been buried beneath the sediment of a sea 100,000,000 years ago, and of a "lost ocean" which once separated the two American, was found by Doctors Lewis B. Kellum and Ralph Imlay of the University of Michigan.

As mapped by geologists the continent extended in the shape of a bear's paw pointing east 250 miles from the southern border of Texas into an ocean which lay in what is now central Mexico

Dr. Imlay said discovery of the shoreline "may well lead to disclosure of a reservoir in areas where source beds of petroleum interfinger or overlie the ships face." He said it also will aid in mapping regions to be prospected for ore.

WIND CHANGE AIDS 70 FIGHT CAMP FLAMES

able wood cut and left piled in the bush during the winter has also been destroyed.

The fire, leaping through the tops of the timber, was moving swiftly toward the settlement when the fortuitous change of wind enabled the men to hold the flames along a long narrow lake which kept the fire back and saved the settlement. At the time the flames were held, the settlement was already being evacuated, men packing all available equipment and furniture down to the lake shore, while the fire ranger and his squad fought back the flames with gas powered pumps and long lines of hose packed into the scene on the backs of sweating firefighters.

FOUGHT HARD

The flames were fought in dense clouds of smoke and cinders which added through Goldfields during the day and night, and water was kept playing on the camp buildings by the staff of the mining companies.

The dense smoke and cinders have kept aircraft out of the mining area for the past three days, and all available boats have been brought close to the settlement to assist in the evacuation if this becomes necessary. While the fire is held at present, the situation is still far from reassuring.

PIPE - SMOKING CROW DEFENDED IN COURT TILT

MONTREAL, June 22.—Jacko—the talking, pipe-smoking crow Thomas Jeffery will "fight to the highest courts in the land" to keep —had plenty of character witnesses when his case came up before Recorder Plante Tuesday. More than a score of adults and children were on hand to deny Jacko disturbed the peace of Rosemount citizens by "intermittent or re-iterated cries," as charged in six new complaints against owner Jeffery.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the blood, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere movement won't relieve you. You need something that works on the liver as well as the bowels. Try the new kind of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Plea For National Co-operation And Concord Made By H. H. Stevens

Canadian Problems Not So Much Legal As Economic, Social

operation; a voluntary declaration of a willingness to co-operate so that unity will displace disunity," said Mr. Stevens, who added that it was his contention that the Fathers of Confederation assumed that in working out their creation, the B.N.A. Act, the people of today would approach it in the same spirit of co-operation and mutual forbearance that actuated them when they framed the act.

The vexed question of which taxing power has the priority, dominion or provincial, he said, could be settled if dominion and provincial taxation experts would sit down together and apply ordinary actuarial common-sense and co-operation.

"Always assuming that the matter be approached in a spirit of mutual goodwill and co-operation, and with the object in view of devising a plan to set up one taxing authority and an equitable division of the sums collected," he added.

"All outstanding problems between the Dominion and the provinces could be settled in the spirit of co-operation based on a willingness to agree," said Mr. Stevens, who held also that there should be no attempt to disturb the well-established and long recognized rights of any of the units which compose Confederation.

Pointing to what could be accomplished along these lines he instanced the good-will and co-operation presently existing between the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

"I am not concerned with the policies of the respective governments of Ontario and Quebec but only with the fact that these two great provinces, after years of estrangement, are now working together in a spirit of concord, seeking a common understanding of problems of mutual interest, and I trust that this is only the forerunner of what will, in the near future, become a general practice," he said.

Turning to business conditions, Mr. Stevens said that at the present time business is suspicious of governments and governments are suspicious of business.

"There seems to be no common ground where they can meet," he said. "Then again we find one business group in conflict with another, resulting in ruthless competitive practices. So also, employees and employers distrust one another, yet in all these there is a common interest, for if any part of our economic structure is sick there cannot be a healthy whole."

Instead of the prevailing attitude of antagonism, criticism and suspicion there should be co-operation and the most cordial spirit of goodwill existing in these forces, said Mr. Stevens, who held that a proper and just appreciation of the good points of each would go far to create the necessary spirit of co-operation.

"In Canada we have some exceptionally fine men as heads of our business concerns, but at the same time it must be acknowledged that there are many abuses and malpractices in business," he said, urging greater co-operation between business and government to eliminate those practices which are a nightmare to all decent business men.

Much could be done in this respect by boards of trade exercising the powers granted them under the Boards of Trade act, said Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Stevens also spoke of the vast army of skilled and unskilled workers in Canada.

"Where would our big business men be if it were not for this army of workers. They are as essential to the businessmen as the businessmen are to them. Each is the complement of the other and here co-operation is a vital necessity," he said. "Between employer and employee co-operation must be based on mutual appreciation of the worth of the other."

A wisely designed system of co-operation would go far to solving the farmers' troubles also.

"The farmers' products are sold to, and handled by, highly organized corporations, while the farmer is an individualist and so at a great disadvantage. A wisely designed system of co-operation would go far to remedy this.

CAREFUL MANAGEMENT

"It would call for careful management and possibly some government leadership, but it could be done. One thing is certain, if your farming population is not in a healthy economic state, there can be no lasting prosperity in this country, and it is of vital importance to us all that the widest possible application of co-operation should be exercised in this regard.

Co-operation could also do much towards the solution of the nightmare of unemployment, said Mr. Stevens. At the present time the municipalities pass the responsibility on to the provinces who in turn pass it on to the Dominion, and then back again it comes to the provinces and the municipalities.

"It has become a great game of shuttle-cock, but the tragedy of it all is that the game is being played with human lives. Yet co-operation between various governments, backed up by a willingness and sympathetic citizenry working through its service clubs and churches, could banish the whole hideous thing from our midst," he said. "Co-operation, and only co-operation, will solve that problem."

CRITICISM CAN WAIT

Referring to criticism that might be raised as to the cost of such co-operation, Mr. Stevens pointed out that "Canada can afford to do anything that is right and necessary to the well-being of humanity."

"There are two great forces that impel men to great achievements—fear and courage," he said. "Fear is one of the most ominous evils to which man is heir. Yet, through fear, many a man has lashed himself into achievements which otherwise were unattainable."

"So with nations; fear has been a relentless driving force, urging them constantly forward to a desired goal. Fear so stimulated scientific effort in Germany that now she supplies a substantial portion of her requirements in rubber, wool, gasoline, food necessities, etc., by synthetic substitutes. Fear forced France, Italy and Germany to raise wheat, thus dislocating the world wheat trade."

"How much better for a country to found its economics and social advancement on courage.

POSSIBLE HERE

"This is possible in a land where nature has been lavish in her gifts and where wealth and happiness is there for the taking—providing we play the game according to the rules. Nature is jealous of her riches, but is generous to the one who has the courage to win them.

Canada is one of nature's richest storehouses, and is a challenge to the courage and fidelity of its people.

"Canada is a 'good land'—but what are men making of it—when so many of its people are unable to earn sufficient to feed and clothe them?

"Canada is a good land, richly endowed by nature. Let her people co-operate in a spirit of goodwill and with a grand courage wrest from her the good things that are there for the taking and distribute them with justice and equity to a happy and a prosperous people."

BEATTY REPLY GIVES INSIGHT TO UNIFICATION

Sir Edward Makes Answers To Questions Of Dandurand

OTTAWA, June 22.—Answering a series of questions posed by the government leader, Senator Raoul Dandurand, Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, today gave the Senate railway committee a measure of insight into his unification plan and attacked the Canadian National Railways stand as one of "deficiency."

He refused to commit himself to the discussion of details of a possible unification arrangement, declaring them a matter for negotiation. Listing assets the C. P. R might bring into unification, he said if the government desired to include ocean steamships "arrangements could probably be made."

In an attack on the C.N.R. stand that unification would not be in the public interest, Sir Edward said in his 3,000-word brief that the committee had been informed little or nothing could be done about the railway's problem "that railways in the wrong place and duplicate railways must always remain in existence and must always be paid for from the taxes because, for some extraordinary reason, it is in the national interest."

CAN'T ACCEPT IT

He could not accept this "attitude of defeatism as the proper solution of an admittedly grave national problem."

The government would have to choose between spending money for unnecessary railways services or using that money for more effective and constructive purposes. The Canadian National would "do nothing and wait for times to get better." His answer to the problem was to make savings.

Sir Edward held to his estimate that $75,000,000 could be saved through unification in normal times and objected to the compulsory co-operation suggestion of President S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National. Coercion would not overcome the objections to unification.

The C.P.R. president proposed the committee recommend that independent experts check the various estimates and conclusions presented to the committee by officials of the two railways. The books of the C.P.R. would be thrown open to the enquirers and their properties thoroughly inspected.

No Need For Public Excitement Says Coleman

OTTAWA, June 22.—No necessity exists for "public excitement over the alleged consequences of unification of the railways," D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, told the Senate railways committee here today. Much of the misunderstanding in the public mind was due, he charged, to insidious propaganda intended to convince the public that any plan of unification necessarily involves line abandonment on a large scale.

The schedule of line abandonments filed with the committee had been prepared at the behest of the Duff commission in 1932, Mr. Coleman said.

"A suggestion that the savings from this source should be included was made by the royal commission directly by A. E. Warren, vice-president of the Canadian National, and myself; and I am, therefore, in a position to inform you accurately as to the origin of this discussion," Mr. Coleman said.

ABSENCE TAX CUT DEPLORED LAWSON SAYS

Conservative and C.C.F. Amendments Entail Confidence Want

OTTAWA, June 21.—Opposition parties levelled a three-sided attack of Finance Minister Charles Dunning's budget in the House of Commons Tuesday as the budget debate began. Conservatives concentrated on failure of the government to reduce taxes, Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation supporters on failure to reduce tariffs and Social Crediters on monetary policy.

Leading off the debate as official financial critic for the opposition, Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Con., York South), candidate for the Conservative leadership, moved an amendment regretting the absence of tax reductions in the budget.

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) went to the Liberal platform of 1919 for ammunition against the government. He moved a subamendment regretting the budget disregarded pledges of the Liberal party in the 1919 platform to reduce tariffs, particularly of necessities of life and implements of production.

Then came John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, with the declaration the budget was a "rich man's budget" and offered no hope of monetary reform which was the only solution to difficulties of the Canadian people.

The Conservative and C. C. F. amendments amount to motions of want of confidence, in the government. Mr. Coldwell said Liberals should support his sub-amendment which was in line with their policies. However, passage of the motion would mean defeat of the government.

HAD NO POLICY

Mr. Lawson said he was unable to enunciate a Conservative policy on Canadian problems because of the approaching party convention.

The government's reason for making no change in the tariff was that it could not give today and bargain tomorrow, Mr. Lawson said. That was a complete concession to Conservative doctrine. In opposition Liberal spokesmen had denounced the former Conservative government for driving a hard bargain with the United Kingdom in 1932.

They had advocated one-sided tariff reductions apart from the negotiation of trade agreements and in the 1930 budget delivered by Mr. Dunning such sweeping reductions had been made to the benefit not only of the United Kingdom but of all other countries. Now Mr. Dunning said unilateral tariff reductions were of no benefit.

SAYE HOME MARKET

"The Conservative party has never advocated that we in this land should be economic nationalists," said Mr. Lawson. "But we have advocated that to the extent that it is economically possible to consume in our domestic market those things which we can produce economically, that domestic market should be protected and every producer and manufacturer in Canada should have an equal opportunity to sell his products in his own home market.

"To the extent that we produce more than we can consume, Conservatives have advocated the negotiation of agreements whereby we might accept products of other countries which we cannot produce economically in exchange for the surplus of our own products."

R. J. Deachman (Lib., Huron North) followed with an argument in favor of greater freedom of trade. Unless tariffs were reduced they would destroy the industry they were designed to protect and they would "destroy Liberalism in this country."

Liberal Works Minister Gets Unexpected Honor

OTTAWA, June 22 — Hon. Colin Campbell, minister of public works in Ontario's Liberal government, was sent an official invitation to the National Conservative convention—but the honor was shortlived and he has been asked to return the precious credential. The confusion in political identity gave the capital a hearty laugh.

The error was caused by a clerk who, unacquainted with the names of illustrious Ontario Liberals, sent the invitation to Mr. Campbell along with other members of the Ontario legislature listed as Conservatives in the parliamentary guide.

The 1938 edition of guide, generally considered factually invulnerable, winds up Mr. Campbell's biography of achievement in Liberal politics with this: "Party politics: Conservative." A secretary at Conservative headquarters noted the mistake. A letter was written Mr. Campbell explaining the situation.

MONKMAN PASS ADVANCE PARTY MAKES HANSARD

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., June 22—An advance crew surveying the route of the Monkman Pass highway from the Peace River district was reported Tuesday to have reached nearby Hansard, B.C., where the projected highway would link up with the British Columbia road system.

Lorne Lyle, Ale Lake sawmill operator, said M. Fremstad, H. Hobi, O. Hansen and "Cariboo" John Burgstom, reached Hansard from the junction of the south fork of the McGregor river after blazing a 25-mile stretch for the volunteer road-builders from the Peace River.

They were accompanied by three youths who said they had hiked over the Monkman Pass from Wembley, Alberta, and found the entire route clear of snow.

1800 Delegates At Tory Meet Are Expected

OTTAWA, June 22—Acceptances from more than 1,000 delegates to the National Conservative convention here July 5, 6 and 7 have already been received from all parts of Canada, John R. MacNicol, joint convention chairman, said Tuesday, as at least 1,800 delegates are expected with several hundred visitors.

Blind Calgary Gardener Irks At Weed Pests

CALGARY, June 22—Robert S. Borland, blind, cannot see his garden, but by running his sensitive fingers over the vegetables and flower plants, can unerringly name each one.

"I like gardening fine. I only get mad when the weeds are so small I can't locate them," he told a reporter who was admiring the long straight rows of vegetables and beautiful borders of flowers all planted in definite patterns.

"I only wish I could visit other gardens more often and get some tips from the way they are planned. But I may go to Victoria, B.C., soon and get some ideas from gardeners there," he told the reporter.

The ring was mislaid in 1918 by Mrs. Leverett Acorn's daughter. Mrs. Acorn's grandson found the ring not far from her home. It was identified by the engraving on the inside surface.

Alberta's First Range Cattle

Back in the days when Edmonton, Battleford and Prince Albert were the only towns on the Saskatchewan River, cattle kings from the south drove large herds to the sparsely-settled plains of western Canada. So began one of the great industries of the West.

About the same time, in 1883, the Canada Life issued its first policy to a resident of Alberta and the company was even then in its thirty-sixth year.

From its humble birth ninety-one years ago, the Canada Life has developed into a great co-operative organization. To-day, hundreds of thousands of policyholders entrust to it savings of more than $250,000,000.

Post-Mortems

Major Clifford Hugh Douglas, while a man of many talents, never learned the folly of trying to change the irrevocable past. He is still bemoaning the collapse of Social Credit in Saskatchewan, and trying to salve the sting of that loss by abusing the Liberal party. In his eyes, Premier Patterson and his followers are guilty of breaking the new dispensation, as given out from Fig Tree Court, in daring to convince voters that the best interests of Saskatchewan demanded the emphatic defeat of Premier Aberhart.

Evidently Major Douglas, in his wide and varied reading, has not come upon that aphorism by Huxley warning men to beware of besmirching the fair face of truth with the cosmetics of rhetoric. For he certainly manhandles the facts when he calls the Saskatchewan contest, in a flight of imaginative rhetoric, "a trap" set by the Liberals against Mr. Aberhart.

The exact contrary is true. The Alberta government invaded Saskatchewan, carried on a campaign of calculated audacity there, and were so sure of victory that Mr. Aberhart looked forward to winning thirty seats and said so publicly a week before polling day. When those vaulting plans fell to the ground and Social Credit reeled under the impact of a smashing reverse, the disgruntled invaders sought to blame everyone but themselves for the consequences of their own mistakes.

Premier Aberhart was unneighborly when he moved his forces into Saskatchewan, and now Major Douglas has shown the world that he cannot take a defeat gracefully. Maybe it is part of Social Credit "strategy" to cry over spilt milk.

Helping the North

The Northern Alberta Railway's decision to reduce by twenty per cent the general freight rate on shipment of goods to the north should meet with the public commendation it deserves. Northern development has been hindered by the high transportation charges still now in effect. The new schedule does not give the north any special privileges or advantages. It simply puts it on a parity with other regions enjoying the lower freight rates prevailing on the prairies.

This happy solution to a problem that has long vexed mining men is another triumph for the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines, which has been striving for this reform with a patient zeal that has now met its just reward. Mr. R. C. Marshall and Mr. L. E. Drummond, president and secretary respectively of the Chamber, placed the reduction of freight charges among the primary objectives of their association. Their victory will redound materially to the economic advantage of Edmonton, whose position as gateway to the north is thereby re-affirmed and enhanced.

Roosevelt Helps Business

Just prior to adjournment of the seventy-fifth Congress a few days ago, the Works Progress Administration made public a plan without precedent in recent years for stimulating business recovery. It is going to spend ten million dollars in buying up all the present surplus stocks in the men's, women's and children's clothing industries, as well as purchasing 500,000 cases of grapefruit juice, for the use of people on relief.

This decision is historic for several reasons. To begin with, the policy was adopted by the WPA only on the recommendation of Sidney Hilman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The government entered the field as a purchaser in order to prevent wages of 160,000 employees in the clothing industry being ruthlessly slashed, a fate which Mr. Hilman said could not be escaped if the surplus stock were not sold.

The policy is no less notable because it points to the essential but often ignored fact that President Roosevelt uses all his power to help industry regain a status of enduring prosperity.

So much attention has been paid to his labor legislation, that his expenditures for the direct benefit of business have eluded the spotlight of publicity. Critics of the President might remember that the man who saved American commerce from utter ruin during the bank crisis still stands pledged to protect and enrich the nation's wealth by the full use of national credit.

Tim Buck Cleared

The report of the Royal Commission on Penitentiaries has a few paragraphs about Tim Buck and the 1932 riots in Kingston jail that make dramatic reading. The Communist leader, imprisoned for what was termed subversive activity, was fired upon several times in his cell by some unknown hand on October 20, 1932. He was blamed, he said, for a riot which had broken out in the jail three days earlier. Buck was unhurt and displayed one of the bullets during a speaking tour of the west undertaken in 1935. Although he vigorously denied being implicated in the riots, he lacked proof of his innocence.

That proof has now been furnished, in abundant measure, by the Royal Commission. It finds that Buck actually tried to prevent the riots, rather than wishing to foment them. Although unable to name the person firing the shots, it arraigns General Ormond, and Inspectors Craig and Dawson for not preparing a satisfactory report on the incident.

Another prisoner, Price by name, was shot in the shoulder while in his cell the same night and left without food or medical attention for 22 hours. He recovered.

If these cases are typical of the negligence prevailing in Kingston penitentiary, little wonder need be excited at the insistence with which the Royal Commission censures General Ormond and urges sweeping revision of Canada's penal system.

Editorial Notes

Capt. Donald Munro of New Galloway, is getting together the latest scientific equipment including sounding gear and range finders. Not for use in the Spanish or Chinese war areas—but to be utilized in an effort to locate the Loch Ness monster! "Nessie" seems to be in for a lively time.

Apparently military titles are considered best dropped on attaining British cabinet rank. Col. Colville, the new Secretary of State for Scotland, is the only one left who still uses the title. The minister of health, Mr. Walter Elliot, dropped the "Major" on appointment to the cabinet, as did Mr. Duff-Cooper, first lord of the admiralty. Mr. Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, also has the military rank of major, but prefers to be known as "Mr." Many of the under-secretaries and other high officials, however, still use their military titles.

Current Comment

Through New Zealand Eyes

The announcement of detailed steps to increase Canadian armament and trained personnel marks another stage in the advance from the calm indifference toward external danger which seemed at one time to characterize that Dominion's policy. . . . It may be assumed that the object is to develop a small, well trained force, equipped in accordance with modern mechanized practice. The program as a whole shows that concrete results have come from the intensified recent discussion of defence and external policy. Though it is an advance, it is still very moderate insurance for 10,000,000 people and the great industrial wealth of Canada. The changed world situation, particularly new developments in the Pacific, have shaken Canada to this extent from the old complacence, but the country is a long way from being heavily armed in comparison with many other countries with far less to lose.—Auckland News.

They Don't "Lean"

At a moment when the country is witnessing the disgraceful spectacle of relief funds being freely used for narrowly partisan purposes the news from Utah that the Mormons are making a new campaign to keep their own people off the government relief rolls comes as a welcome breath of clear mountain air.

It seems incredible but it is actually true that at least in this one state of the Union the Federal Government's relief policy not only is openly challenged but it being supplemented by a thoroughly efficient organization for local relief.

But this is not the whole story, for, in addition to making every effort to take care of its own needy, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, as the Mormon Church is formally styled, is openly preaching—and in so far as it can actually enforcing—the good old doctrine of self-reliance and self-dependence.

Men are being encouraged to support themselves—not alone for economic reasons but because of the spiritual and moral advantages of standing on their own feet instead of being what the people of Utah call "leaners".—New York Herald-Tribune.

Law vs. Force

By A. G. GARDINER
(Famed Publicist and Former Editor, London Daily News)

LONDON.—When I began writing these despatches, "the war that was to end war" was only recently over, and, to all appearances, peace in Europe was established, if not finally and forever, still for such a long period as put the calculation of a major war out of the reckoning.

The Central Powers were defeated, disarmed, bankrupt, their armies disbanded, their fleets sunk. The victorious Allies were the unchallenged masters of Europe and were committed to consolidate the peace on the basis of the newly formulated League of Nations.

Through that instrument, devised by President Wilson, the doctrine of collective security against aggression was to be the governing principle of European policy. Power politics were henceforth ruled out, and for the arbitrament of force the settlement of law was to be substituted. With the demilitarization of Germany, the nightmare of competitive armaments which had haunted Europe for generations was exorcised, and an era of universal disarmament had set in.

After a due period of probation, Germany was to be admitted to the League on terms of equality, and, with all the bitterness of the war become an historic memory, the United States of Europe could look forward to a reign of perpetual peace as securely established as that enjoyed by the great confederation across the Atlantic.

That was the dream. It has gone like a dream. Twenty years have passed, and Europe is back, full circle, to the nightmare conditions of 1914 that preluded the Great War. Power politics are in the saddle again and the race in armaments has been on a scale unprecedented in the past.

Every humane interest is sacrificed to the tyrannic urgencies of imminent war, and each nation has become an arsenal of frenzied activities. Geneva, which was to be the dayspring of a new humanity, is the home of a lost cause. The League is, for all purposes dead, and the Covenant, outraged and derided, a scrap of paper, scoffed at by the dictators and militarists, who have started bonfires from Spain to China.

All the hopes that centred in the disarmament conference have gone by the board. The Versailles Treaty has been torn to ribbons, and the Kellogg Pact and the Locarno Agreement have been cast overboard with the League Covenant into the wastepaper basket.

At the centre of this terrible bouleversement stands Germany, once more armed to the teeth and the most formidable military power in Europe, conscious of her power, defiantly hostile to the League and collective security, committed to a gospel of racial domination, harsh, barbaric, intolerant, fortified by the success of a series of startling strokes of policy that have shaken the nerves of Europe with fear of incalculable things, and backed by the support of a rival dictator who is at once Hitler's ally and his prisoner, useful for his purpose of establishing his hegemony of Europe, negligible when, if ever, that purpose is achieved.

To what astonishing reversal come about? The first seed of the failure of Wilson's policy was sown when the United States washed its hands of the League. "Without America," said General Smuts to me at the peace conference, "the League would fail. For without America the burden of carrying it to success would fall on the British Empire, and the British Empire could not carry it alone." Events have shown that he was right.

The next fatal step was the refusal of the United States to implement the tri-partite agreement guaranteeing French security. From this flowed the disastrous policy by which France sought to guarantee her own security by arming herself, keeping Germany disarmed and enveloping her with armed allies. This gave an anti-German bias to the League and reduced the policy of all-round disarmament, which was the essence of the League idea, to a sham.

The result we know. The attempt to imprison sixty million people failed, and the Germany that at the end of fifteen years—the years the locusts ate—emerged from its prison was a Germany inflamed with the passion of revenge and its ancient gospel of war. It emerged just as the Japanese invasion of Manchuria had shown the vulnerability of the League as constituted.

That lesson blazed the way to Abyssinia, to the invasion of the Rhineland, to the civil war in Spain, to the seizure of Austria. The League was dead and the democratic powers went on pretending it was alive, blind to the terrific rearming of German rearmament. Having failed to establish peace, they failed equally to grapple with the new menace of war in time to nip it in the bud.

The invasion of the Rhineland was the last moment when the challenge could have been taken up with the certainty of success. It passed. And now every furnace in Europe is heated white hot in preparation for we know not what.—Vancouver Province.

Your Health

DR. FRANK McCOY

As we grow older, the arteries become more or less brittle, and there is a tendency to lose the elastic quality seen in the youthful artery. Hardening of the arteries is therefore one of the diseases usually attendant upon age and generally does not begin until the patient reaches the middle stage of life.

With the right kind of care, the hardening process may be delayed or prevented and it is entirely possible to reach the age of sixty or seventy without being troubled by arterial hardening in any noticeable degree. The reverse is also true, and unwise habits of living may cause an abnormal brittleness of the arterial walls which appears far too early in life.

High blood pressure usually co-exists with hardening of the arteries and it is therefore common to find them both in the same patient, but this is by no means an invariable rule. Fortunately, the dietetic treatment is practically the same for both arterial hardening and high blood pressure.

The main cause of arterial hardening, also called arteriosclerosis, is a toxic condition of the blood stream, and the toxic material transported in the body must finally irritate the delicate lining of the blood vessels. To protect themselves from this continued irritation, the arteries lay down a deposit of calcium or lime. It is this deposit which makes the artery hard, stiff or brittle. The patient has often been a hearty eater of starchy foods and is frequently a sufferer from constipation. Contributing causes are mental strain, nervous tension, worry and other like mental states.

Arterial hardening of itself does not produce any symptoms, and when symptoms do appear they are the result of a diminished blood supply, the narrowed and thickened artery being unable to carry a fully supply of blood.

The three vital organs most likely to be handicapped by arteriosclerosis are the heart, kidneys and brain. If the heart bears the brunt of the heardening process, such symptoms as shortness of breath, and pain through the left side of the chest, will appear. When the kidneys are the parts chiefly affected, then changes may occur which produce the symptoms of Bright's Disease or neurities. If the arteries of the brain are affected, the change may be so slow that the patient scarcely notices any symptoms, although later on he may complain of dizziness, loss of memory for recent happenings, headaches and faintness. Those associated with him may notice he is becoming more self-centred and less willing to make any change in his usual way of living. The intellectual capacity may be progressively lessened.

The brain changes resulting from arterial hardening are due partly to the slowing down of the blood circulation and may be partly the result of a rupture of one of the blood vessels, producing apoplexy. The blood vessel producing hemorrhage, or it may be the result of thrombosis or embolism.

I find that in many cases hardening of the arteries may be partially overcome by the patient using a very strict diet. The main rule to observe it to leave out the starches, doing this for a long time if necessary. Patients may continue to improve over a period of years and satisfactory progress wil be made in all cases not too far advanced.

Questions And Answers

QUESTION: M. O. writes: "When a person is suffering from a heart attack due to weak heart, has pains in the chest, difficulty in walking, arms feel like they are partly paralyzed, accompanied by acid indigestion and stomach feeling heavy and constipation—what is the best thing to do? Kindly advise at once."

ANSWER: This case is somewhat complicated, due to the heart difficulty, indigestion and constipation, and therefore requires special treatment outlined by a physician who is familiar with it through personal observation. A purely general treatment would consist of fasting on plain water during the attack of indigestion, the use of enema to relieve the constipation, and rest in bed during the heart attack.

QUESTION: X. Y. Z. asks: "Please answer through your column whether persimmons are acid-forming or alkaline-forming."

ANSWER: None of the tables giving the acid- and alkaline-forming foods which I have consulted list the persimmon. However, inasmuch as most fruits are in the alkaline-forming group, this is probably true of this fruit as well. Perhaps some reader who has this information will forward it to me, so that I may know if this conclusion is correct.

QUESTION: B. B. wants to know: "Why is it that twice when I have sent in questions for your column they have not appeared?"

ANSWER: Probably they dealt with subjects which can not be discussed in a newspaper, if they were not answered. Or, possibly they were used and appeared on a day when you happened to miss seeing the paper. No record is kept of these anonymous questions and I have no way of checking back for you.

Financial Orthodoxy

Editor, Bulletin: One who has known the "Bulletin" for thirty years must admire its editorial efforts to maintain its traditional loyalty to the Liberal cause, and administrations, to which the paper was committed by its honored founder, the late Honorable Frank Oliver.

Your editorials of the 20th, dealing with the Dominion budget, are traditionally loyal and yet commendably, though mildly, critical of the Minister of Finance.

The financial orthodoxy of Mr. Dunning is incontrovertible. Have we not seen Canada refunding debts and borrowing more money in London and New York while we boasted of a favorable trade balance amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars?

It is a peculiarity of orthdox finance that, nb mater how wealthy a nation may be, its government must be kept in a perpetual state of abject penury so far as money is concerned, and must for ever be a mendicant at the opulent portals of finance to obtain that which it has the sole right to create.

Mr. Dunning is reported to have said that he cannot conform to "hoary proporals" by creating "something for nothing" in the form of fiduciary issues of currency and credit. Apparently, the Minister of Finance has not yet achieved a stage of thought which will eventually lead him to the realization that money, or credit, has no value except as a claim on goods and services. The atmosphere in which he now finds himself has isolated him from the growing number of men who can see no wrong in a people's government issuing claims on goods, without costly intervention, for material and work done on public account. This is the one simple and sensible way in which an exchange of privately produced commodities for a publicly owned utility can, without gouging the people, be made.

J. H. HODSON.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date, June 22, in 1869, Lord Lisgar, then governor-general, gave the royal assent to a bill which ended the shameful spectacle of public executions of criminals in Canada. Although this horror had been continued from the French regime through successive stages of British rule, there had been little change from the primitive idea that the way to prevent crime was to punish the guilty as publicly as possible. It is true that during the later years these public executions had been confined to the front of the prisons, instead of being held in the market squares or other places of public gathering, such as the Citadel and the Plains of Abraham at Quebec, where, despite appeals of the clergy, the morbid would gather to watch the gruesome event.

Obviously, however, gradually grew that public executions tended more to encourage than to halt crime, with their added opportunities for public drunkenness and rowdyism, and after the hanging of Patrick Whelan, the assasin of Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee, at Ottawa, February 11, 1869, it reached such proportions that Sir John Macdonald, as minister of justice, passed through parliament the bill which became 32-33 Victoria, chapter xxix. This stipulated that death sentences were to be carried out within the precincts of the prison in which the doomed man was confined, and that only the sheriff, the jail surgeon and "such other persons as the sheriff should require," would be permitted to be present.

Of recent years there has been a tendency to refuse reporters access to executions, and we are now spared the unpleasant details of what happens on a judicial scaffold. Which is as good for the reporters as for the public! I saw the execution at Montreal over 50 years ago, and never wanted to see another. Once was, indeed, enough.

It had no connection and no significance, but it is a coincidence that both Wilfrid Laurier and Robert Laird Borden were knighted on 2 June 22, the first in 1897, the latter in 1914.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail).—The "special train" gambit appears to have been successfully played at Berlin by the British Embassy. History thus repeats itself. Sixty years ago when the negotiations were in progress which resulted in the Berline Treaty, Disraeli, the chief British delegate, became very tired of the interminable deadlocks and delays. His patience at last broke down and he ostentatiously ordered a train to take him home. This was sufficient; the Congress speeded things up and the British Prime Minister was able to return to London bringing "peace with Honor."

J. E. NORCROSS

More recently, it will be recalled, President Wilson, weary of the procrastinations of the Peace Conference in the spring of 1919, ordered his ship, the "George Washington", then at Brest, to prepare for sea.

The story goes that when the Czechoslovakian crisis was at its height recently the British Ambassador could obtain no satisfaction about German troop movements from Herr von Ribbentrop. He had informed the German Foreign Minister that if, as a consequence of German action in Czechoslovakia war broke out between Germany and France, Germany might find Great Britain in the field against her also.

Herr von Ribbentrop failed to give the assurances sought. Forthwith a special train was ordered to take British women and children out of Germany. Then and then only was it made known to the British Ambassador that German troops would not cross the Czechoslovakian frontier. The order for the train was cancelled.

Meanwhile Mr. Chamberlain had summoned a Sunday cabinet council, news of the assembling of which, given out over the radio, alarmed the whole country. Happily, the prime minister was able to assure parliament next day that the situation had become easier.

LEGISLATION is to be passed this session which will give large numbers of workers holidays with pay. The government, the minister of labor has told the House of Commons, has accepted the proposals of the committee which recently reported on the question.

Of course, holidays with pay will not be secured all at once for every worker. The British way it to do things gradually, a method the wisdom of which gains by comparison with certain recent legislation on working hours in France.

For the time being the government will be content to provide for holidays with pay in those forms of employment which are within the jurisdiction of the minimum wage bodies, the trade boards and the agricultural wages committee. The bill in preparation will not make paid holidays compulsory in other industries but will set up machinery to enable and enforce agreements between employers and employed.

Ultimately, holidays with pay will be made compulsory all round, but not yet. It is, in fact, hoped that by the time legislation to this effect comes up for consideration, say five or three years hence, the paid holiday will have become so widespread that only a small field will be left to be covered.

Two recommendations are sidetracked. The government does not propose to include provision for domestic servants in the forthcoming bill and sees no immediate prospect of giving effect to the fixed Easter proposal.

McDermid Studios Now Are Located In New Building

For the past 25 years McDermid Studios Limited has steadily grown, serving faithfully, and gaining new friends as the years went by. This year marks the silver anniversary of the company, and it is fitting that it should be chosen as the year to move to the new and permanent location.

The new building at 10024 101 st. has been scientifically planned and laid out, incorporating improvements in all departments.

The McDermid Studios Limited houses the four departments of the company. The well furnished comfortable portrait studio, largest in western Canada, is lined throughout with special soundproof composition and has the most modern facilities in portrait lighting. Distinctive portraiture which has given McDermid Studios such an enviable position among portrait photographers will now be even more advanced.

The commercial photo department has been equipped to handle any photographic need from dramatized photographs for advertising illustration, and merchandising, to the outdoor "anywhere" type of picture. Photographs from the air or artificially illuminated photographs under ground are within the scope of the commercial department.

The personnel of the art and designing department has been trained to specialize in their respective fields of illustration McDermid Studios Limited are equipped to offer you suggestions on any merchandising or advertising problem.

The fourth and by no means least important department of the McDermid institution is the photo-engraving department, manned by skilled operators.

McDermid Studios specialize in newspaper cuts of all kinds for daily and weekly newspapers. The plant maintains an eight-hour service for out-of-town printers. Printing plates in any number of colors are produced in Edmonton by McDermid Studios Limited.

Another section of the engraving department deals with the production of brass, copper and zinc signs, memorial plates and plaques. Some of the most beautiful effects may be obtained with colored fillers on engraved brass signs in the McDermid plant.

The new McDermid building houses a truly efficient plant and its modern facilities will keep step with Edmonton's progress for many years to come.

The directors of the company are C. R. Morrison, president; J. G. Housez and B. C. Hollingshead.

Foreign Spies Risking Lives Trying Uncover U.S. Warplane Secrets

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, June 22.—Foreign spies, trying to filch secrets from American warplane factories, want to know how the United States proposes to operate planes of the future without propellers.

They would like to find out the extent of United States laboratory work in launching tomorrow's warplanes, weighing several hundred thousands pounds, by catapult.

They risk their lives to steal the designs for aircraft bomb sights, which enable army and navy airmen to reach a target unerringly from an altitude of four miles.

When 18 persons were indicted Monday on charges of espionage, it was learned from confidential sources Tuesday, it marked only the beginning of a drive against more than one foreign spy ring.

Ramifications of the work of foreign secret intelligence agents, identified by the international situation and the world re-armament race, are known only to picked government agents. Working with the army and navy, the justice, treasury and other departments of the civil governments are protecting devices for national defence and with which warplanes may not be equipped for another five years.

SECURITY ACT FALLS SHORT SPEAKER SAYS

VANCOUVER, June 22.—An attack against the United States Social Security Act on grounds it made no provision for protecting the wage earner and his family against economic burdens resulting from illness was made Tuesday by Dr. Foul A. Dodd, assistant professor of economics at the University of California.

Dr. Dodd spoke just after Hugh Wolfenden, Toronto actuarian who was another speaker before the sixth Canadian conference on social work, had criticized the British Columbia Health Insurance Act, now on the statute books of the province although not yet in operation.

Wolfenden described the act as an example of the danger of governments embarking on "adventures" whose actual cost could not be predicted definitely. There was no way to tell whether the British Columbia scheme was actuarially sound because that aspect of the problem had not been fully considered in drafting of the law.

CLERGY SEEK FURTHER HELP SINGLE JOBLESS

VANCOUVER, June 22—A group of Protestant clergymen meeting in First United church here passed a resolution urging "the inadequacy of provincial and federal unemployment policies."

In an interview with Premier T. D. Pattullo Monday he clergymen asked for a conciliation board to settle the "Present situation of hostility and strife" arising out of Vancouver's unemployed disorders, including the eviction of men from the post office and art gallery. They also asked for food and medicine for the men until works programs were started. The premier turned down their proposals.

WINNIPEG, June 22—Winnipeg's single jobless at a mass meeting in market square last night passed a resolution condemning "The use of armed force in coercing the unemployed single men in Vancouver to accept deplorable conditions which face all unemployed single men in Canada."

Anglo Business Organizes For Anti-Dumping

LONDON, June 22—Alarmed by mounting imports from subsidized industries in continental countries, an organized campaign has been launched by business interests in Great Britain for anti-dumping measures patterned on the Canadian and United States plans.

The Empire Industries Association has taken the lead in the movement against such imports and has directed its heavy guns on Germany in particular, which in recent years has captured a big slice of the United Kingdom market in the low-priced motor car field.

British-Owned Property Target For Jap Raids

HONG KONG, June 22—Eighteen Japanese air raiders, it was reported today, bombed property of the British-owned Asiatic Petroleum Company in an attack on Wuchow, in Kwangsi province.

One bomb, it was said, fell in the British company's grounds, another on the property of the American-owned Texas Oil Company and three others barely missed Standard Oil Company grounds, near a Chinese arsenal.

Damage was said to have been slight. No casualties were reported.

Canadian Fascists Meet In Kingston

LOYAL TROOPS DIG DEEP FOR FINAL STAND

Government Soldiers, Stripped to Waist, Fight Off Attack

ON THE EASTERN FRONT WITH TROOPS NEAR NULES, Spain, June 22—Thousands of workers hewed formidable fortifications out of solid rock north of Valencia Tuesday while Government troops fighting stripped to the waist under a broiling sun, held off the Insurgents in heavy fighting around Villarreal and Burriana, 35 miles up the Mediterranean coast above Valencia.

The sun-tanned toilers rushed completion of rock fortifications stretching between Sagunto and Ulmenara, some 14 miles north of Valencia, where the greatest battle probably will be fought in defence of the vital government seaport.

Machine-gun nests and artillery bases protected by thickly-strung barbed-wire were blasted out behind deep broad trenches that would trap enemy tanks.

The speed and thoroughness of preparations appeared conclusive proof military leaders and troops are supporting Premier Juan Negrin's assertion the Spanish civil war still will be long and hard-fought.

The Valencia press is reiterating Valencia will be another Madrid with the enemy unable to break through.

CALGARY DOCTOR WINS PRIZE FOR NOTED SERVICE

HALIFAX, June 22.—The F. N. G. Starr award for distinguished service in the field of medicine has been awarded to Dr. John S. McEachern of Calgary, it was announced at a meeting of the Canadian Medical Association's general council today.

While previous awards have been made in the field of research the award was made to Dr. McEachern for his service in another field. Chief among his achievements has been his work for federation of the provincial medical societies with the Canadian Medical Association, which was fulfilled yesterday when seven of the nine provincial organizations approved the plan.

He also furthered the cancer control program in promoting organization of the Canadian Society for Control of Cancer and the department of cancer control in the association.

HERO OF PLAINS DIES AT NELSON

NELSON, B.C., June 22—Alan Forrester, who crossed the prairies ahead of steel as a member of the old Royal Northwest Mounted Police, died here last night, aged 72.

A great war veteran and one of the earliest members of the British Columbia police, he joined the Mounted Police in Regina shortly after the Riel Rebellion, for which he enlisted but saw no active service. During his 10 years in the force he rose to be its youngest sergeant. For part of the period he was stationed at Fort Macleod, Alberta.

Forrester joined the customs service and British Columbia police at Rossland, B.C., in 1898, and came here 10 years later. For the past 21 years he was an invalida as a result of wounds and gassing received at Vimy Ridge.

Children With Matches Cause Fire In Barn

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LLOYDMINSTER, June 22—Believed to have been started by children playing, fire completely destroyed the barn at Westminster Park school, six miles west of here, at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Fortunately there were no horses in the building at the time, but a cow had its hide severely burned.

Two bicycles were stolen in Lloydminster on Tuesday evening, one belonging to the Philpott's Store, Ltd., was stolen from in front of the store; the other belonged to Glen Gerow, Edmonton Bulletin carrier boy, from his home. No trace of the missing bikes has yet been found.

Jobless Survey Made By Group

OTTAWA, June 22—A survey conducted by the Vancouver Youth Council June 10 showed that of a total of 607 men occupying the Vancouver post office and art gallery, 445 had lived in British Columbia for five years, 87 for three years and 75 for less than three years, Senator Raoul Dandurand told the senate Tuesday.

The government leader was answering a question by Senator J. P. B. Casgrain (Lib., Montreal). The figures were not "official," Senator Dandurand added.

Irene Smith Is Bride Of Albert Treen

Performed with all the simple dignity that marks an "army" ceremony, the marriage of Lillian Irene Smith, eldest daughter of Mrs. George McKinley and Albert Lawrence Treen, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Treen, took place in the Salvation Army Citadel on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

Peonies in varying shades of rose, and other summer flowers were a colorful setting for the ceremony which was performed by Major Joseph Acton.

Both having taken prominent part in the activities of the youth group at the Citadel, the bride and bridegroom have many friends in army circles, and the wedding occasions considerable interest.

The bride, who carried a bouquet of yellow roses, contrasting prettily with the dark blue of her smart army uniform, was attended by her sister, Miss Rowena Smith, whose flowers were pink roses.

Mr. Fred Smith, brother of the bride, was best man.

Miss Lucy Muir played the wedding music and Miss Corine Bassingthwaite sang delightfully, "O Perfect Love."

150 GUESTS

More than 150 guests were present at the reception arranged later in the lower hall of the Citadel.

Rose and white was the color scheme carried out on the bride's table which was centred by a three-tiered cake.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Treen will take up residence in Edmonton, and will shortly be at home to their friends at 9423 95 street.

Canadian Club Members Plan Joint Affair

Celebration which members of the Canadian Club hold annually as close as possible to Dominion Day will this year take the form of a joint luncheon of the men's and women's clubs arranged for the coming Friday at the Macdonald hotel.

"Canada's Future" is the appropriate subject which the guest speaker, Dr. James S. Thomson, president of the University of Saskatchewan, has chosen for his address. The affair will commence at half past twelve o'clock.

Seated at the head table with the guest of honor will be Dr. George Macdonald, who will preside as chairman, and Mrs. Macdonald, His Honor J. C. Bowen, lieutenant governor of Alberta, Hon. William Aberhart, premier of Alberta, and Mrs. Aberhart, His Worship Mayor John W. Fry and Mrs. Fry, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. B. Kerr, Mr. John Emrie, Miss Fanny Muntroe, Mrs. W. J. Melrose and Miss A. M. Magee.

Farm Women's Weeks To Be Summer Events

"Farm Women's Week"—a week of change and recreation in many women, who, on account of home ties and finances, can not get away for a long holiday—combined with instructional guidance in a variety of subjects—is this year to be held at the School of Agriculture in Vermilion from July 5th to 8th and at the School of Agriculture in Olds from August 1st to 4th.

BEGUN IN 1930

First "Farm Women's Week" was in 1930 and since has been held annually, the beauty of the grounds and gardens, comfort of the dormitories, the comparative accessibility of the schools and the type of instruction available all being factors contributing to its success.

Lectures by skilled instructors on a variety of topics, among them being domestic science, sewing problems, diets, preservation of foods, home decorations are included in the program. The instructor in horticulture will give several talks on the growing of flowers, shrubs and vegetables and there will also be outdoor periods. Two evening sessions will include talks on literary and historical subjects.

150 AT EACH SCHOOL

The course is open to the women of Alberta up to the limit of accommodation at each school. It is not necessary to come for the entire four days, but for a day if you so desire.

Delegates may have accommodation at the prescribed rates, commencing on the afternoon previous to the opening day and until the morning following for the four day course. Arrangements are made to look after babies or small children whom it is necessary to bring and no charge is made for children under five years of age.

C.W.L. DISCUSSES FAMILY PROBLEMS

QUEBEC: June 22—Family welfare problems were discussed at a special meeting of the Catholic Women's League, in annual convention here.

Mrs. W. J. Dundin of Montreal, national convener of the league's social service committee, led the discussion, while a second meeting examined problems faced by the league national scholarship board. Mrs. John T. Mullahy of Pembroke, Ont. and Miss Mary Irene Foy, director of the Catholic welfare bureau of the C.W.L., spoke on family welfare questions.

Slack Style

Beautifully cut, gray flannel slacks and a trimly tailored jacket in pink herringbone flannel go together to make this one of the most attractive summer sports costumes in current collections. The slide-sided cuff clips and the bandana headkerchief are fashion-right accessories.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, June 22 — The new Miette Hot Springs pool was the mecca for many last week-end. Here, the Dominion department of mines and resources has built one of the most modern pools at a cost of about $80,000, so that the curative waters of these springs may be enjoyed. Opening day was June 15 and the first to enter the pool were two youths from Hinton. The submarine and flood lighting will make evening bathing popular as the pool will be open until midnight.

Located just 16 miles from park gate on the Edmonton-Jasper highway and 38 miles from Jasper town, the springs are approached by a splendid road. A motor camp site has been set aside close to the springs, for the accommodation of the public and a number have taken advantage of it this early in the season. The main swimming pool is maintained at a temperature of 100 degrees and the plunge pools at 110 degrees. The latter and the steam rooms are provided for treatment of rheumatism and kindred ailments.

FROM EDMONTON

A number of Edmonton people are enjoying June in the Rockies. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Emery are occupying their spacious cabin at Lake Edith, while Dr. and Mrs. John Walter are spending a holiday in the Cunningham cottage, also at Lake Edith. Mrs. Roy Webber has opened her cabin, Webber Chalet, for the season, Mr. and Mrs. John Howey and Mr. and Mrs. D. Mc Mann are in the McLean cottage at Pyramid lake for a short holiday.

White Circle Club Marks Birthday

Eighth birthday party of the White Circle Club, arranged one evening this week in the Macdonald hotel when 30 club members sat down to a lovely banquet prepared for them, was a happy occasion indeed, for as they chatted and visited together during the interesting evening, they remembered their many enjoyable times together and made plans for exciting new ones.

New officers for the coming season were named, Miss Kay Weber being voted to the post of president.

TOAST LIST

Toasts proposed during the dinner hour were given by Miss Kay Baxter, Miss Monica Bowker who toasted the club, to which Mrs. J. Patrick responded, and by Miss Maxine McMillan to the new executive, to which Miss Kay Weber replied.

Reading of the club paper and the submitting of the treasurer's report were two interesting features of the evening.

High point of the entertainment came, however, with the T.W.C.C. radio hour. Announcer was Miss Maxine McMillan, news comment, star Miss Olive Thoms with sound effects arranged by Miss Kay Weber. Several hilarious comedy skits were broadcast over the "radio" during the evening.

THE EXECUTIVE

Results of elections for the coming year are as follows: president, Miss Kay Weber; vice-president, Miss Marjorie McLean; secretary, Miss Betty Stafford; chaplain, Miss Edith Bristow.

Bouquets of peonies were arranged tastefully on the supper tables, and each of the members present received a corsage of carnations.

Present were Mrs. J. Patrick, Miss Olive Thoms, Miss Gladys McLean, Miss Kay Weber, Miss Kay Baxter, Miss Monota Barber, Miss Edith Bristow, Miss Marion Goldsworthy, Miss Peg Ey Herbison, Mrs. C. Dowdell, Miss Vera King, Miss Helen Kirkland, Miss Isobel MacDonald, Miss Maxine McMillan, Miss Marjorie McLean, Miss Ida Beaton, Miss Betty Clarke, Miss Betty Stafford, Miss Bunty Bowker, Miss Eleanore Bigelow, Miss Helen Main.

Miss Betty Blockzin, Miss Helen Cairns, Miss Helen Davidson, Miss Jean Hobson, Miss Mary Rowland and Mrs G. Bishop.

Local Dancers Win Honors In Manitoba

Edmonton was well represented, not only in numbers, but in ability, at the Highland Games held recently in Transcona, Manitoba, and four young ladies who have just returned from Winnipeg brought home with them high honors. They are the Misses Margaret MacDonald, Lillian Foster, Minnie Foster and Betty Cairney, all pupils of Miss Helen Shirlaw.

Mrs. Cairney accompanied the girls to the games.

Miss Margaret MacDonald was the winner of two first prizes three second prizes and the aggregate trophy for highland dancing.

The Misses Lillian and Minnie Foster each won a third prize, while Miss Betty Cairney won three gold medals and two silver medals in her class.

Miss Mary Burns, also of Edmonton, won a first prize.

Soldiers Are Entertained By I.O.D.E. Unit

Fifty ex-servicemen, patients in the wards of the soldiers' wing of the University hospital were guests of the Fort Augustus chapter, I.O.D.E. at their regular monthly party on Monday evening.

Refreshments of strawberries and cream and cake were served and later cigarettes were given to the men.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Annie C. Smith, Miss I. Home, Miss L. Durrand, Miss Doris Davis and Miss Edith Marsden.

ADVANCE SEEN IN NORTHERN DRAMA STATUS

Considerable improvement in the general standard of the work presented in dramatic festivals in the north was noticed by Major L. Bullock-Webster, organizer of Community Drama for British Columbia, who visited briefly in Edmonton recently en route from the Peace River Music and Drama Festival, where he adjudicated, to Quesnel, where he will act in a similar capacity at a Drama Festival there.

Honors in the festival at Peace River were won by two amateur groups from Columbia Department cup for the best play went to the Progress and District Drama Guild which presented "Outward Bound" and the best actor, while the award for the best actress went to the Shearer Park group.

Major Bullock-Webster has been asked to speak on "Drama In Western Canada" at the San Francisco conference of the League of Western Writers of which organization he is second vice-president. At the recent Dominion Drama Festival in Winnipeg he was elected a governor of the D.D.F. for a three year period.

A GLITTERING EMPRESS—her coronet of snow-crested peaks rivalling the world's crown jewels, a gypsy, in green fringed skirt, flaunting two ribbon-rivers as a sash around her waist—her bodyguard, a troop of "mounties" on horses of polished ebony." That, according to the feature-writer, Ellen Mackie, is Banff, Banff, where celebrities can walk incognito, their mere worldly fame paled before the dazzling splendor of the enchantress of the Canadian Rockies.

"You are bound to be bowled over at your first eyeful of Banff," Ellen Mackie continues, "whether you are swinging a golf club, smashing a tennis ball over the net, scaling a mountain, or merely jogtrotting over one of the spider-web trails. Perhaps this spellbinding is the reason so many famous personalities can browse around the mountains unnoticed and unrecognized.

But not for Tim, the English crossing-sweeper, who still retains a London cockney's veneration for the "toffs," do they pass unnoticed. He can always spot them from his vantage point at the crossing in the middle figure playing host to a royal or government coat, his peaked cap set jauntily upon a shock of sorrel hair, now turning grey, a fat cigar protruding from between his flaming sideburns, has in fact tabbed to many celebrities than any other two people in Banff.

"Good morning, ma'am." Tim greets the tourist, politely doffing his cap. "Yes, ma'am, it's a beautiful place. Lots of nowtables comes here. I've seen 'em all. They come to play golf—but no fish medbe. Lots of bloomin' millionaires,"—here Tim's blue eyes grow a trifle pensive—"Why? I was one of these here millionaires—"

"Well?" asks the curious visitor, "what would you do with all that money?"

"Wot would I do with it? Why, ma'am, I'd buy a longer 'andle for me broom."

Tim hasn't yet acquired a longer handle for his broom—but he will still tell you the secret. "It's a little bit of orl right"—and there are plenty of "nowtables" who agree with him.

Take Gene Sarazen, the famous golf "pro". The first time he turned up on the links at Banff Springs, he toted a camera along. That morning he took almost as many shots at the ball as he did at the scenery, which quite a few more shots than Sarazen was wont to do his eighteen holes in. Afterwards, contemplating his off-the-record score, Sarazen remarked with a rueful grin:

"Now that I've taken in the scenery, tomorrow I'm going to play golf."

The breath-taking setting of the links, has no more than one top-notch player off his game, or he's as was the case with Joyce Wethered, former lady golfer of the world. According to the Irish lad who caddied for her, Wethered was so taken up "gawping" at the scenery, she couldn't keep her eye on the ball.

Sir Hubert Wilkins sat day after day contemplating the Indians call the "glittering mountains"—yet no one guessed he was the famous explorer. Catherine Cornell, who likes to get back to nature in togs antiquated and comfortable—did a spot of hiking around these parts practically incognito. The dramatic profile of John Barrymore silhouetted against a mountain crag at Lake Louise, caused but little sensation.

Almost any pair of smoked glasses you meet along the trail might be tagged with a famous name. Screen stars who panic Broadway, hie them to these mountains to get away from it all.

How well they succeed.

A LADY

You are beautiful and faded
Lake an old opera tune
Played upon a harpsichord:
Or like the sun-flooded silks
Of an eighteenth-century boudoir.
In your eyes
Smoulder the fallen roses of outlived minutes.
And the perfume of your soul
Is vague and suffusing.
With the pungence of sealed spice-jars.
Your half-tones delight me.
And I grow mad with gazing
At your blent colors.

My Vigour is a new-minted penny,
Which I cast at your feet.
Gather it up from the dust
That its sparkle may amuse you.

—Amy Lowell.

EDITORS WANT STORIES TO BE SHORTER

WINNIPEG, June 22—Wilma Tait, editor of the Canadian Home Journal, told delegates to the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Women's Press Club the trend was for shorter stories. "And I think it's all for the better," Miss Tait said.

Both Miss Tait and Byrne Hope Sanders, editor of Chatelaine, stated articles and features used in their magazines were 100 per cent material by Canadian writers but they couldn't say the same about fiction.

Keeping fiction "all Canadian" would be impossible, they agreed, because of competition from outside publications and picture magazines.

Press Freedom Must Be Kept C.W.P.C. Told

WINNIPEG, June 22—Miss Isabel C. Armstrong of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Women's Press Club and Mrs. A. V. Thomas, head of the Winnipeg branch, warned delegates at the opening of the club's eighth triennial meeting to vigilantly guard the freedom of the press.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME

Mrs. Thomas welcomed visitors from all provinces in Canada and distinguished guests as the 32-year-old organization, formed in Winnipeg in 1906, began the four-day meet.

Miss Armstrong urged press women to maintain the high aims and principles of their club.

"You have the opportunity to be of great service to your country and to make valuable contribution through the power of the written word, a power which may be more potent than armies," she said. "If we put our best into it, responsible work is still the greatest job in the world."

INVITATION TO MEN

Miss Byrne Hope Saunders, editor of a women's magazine in Toronto, issued an invitation to men to invade the women's magazine field.

"They are passing up a fine opportunity," she said. "The women would be interested in what the men think about their affairs. And it would be only fair because men's magazines have been using views of women about men."

Eighty-one delegates attended the opening sessions from a total club membership of 350.

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One time a man gave his wife a beautiful travelling bag for her birthday. A year later, when it was brought down from the attic to pack for a trip, she said it was not fit to use.

He stared at it incredulously. "Is that your new case?" he asked.

"New? I've had it a year. "That is why you expect!"

"But you have scarcely gone anywhere. It cost $25. It should have lasted."

There you go. Sue's laundry case wore out

O R. Barton and I had to use this to take her clothes in every week. It went by mail.

"Heavens and earth," groaned her husband. "A grocery box would undo hundreds of dollars. I should think you would have had some pride of such a possession."

NO SENSE OF VALUES

This lady had a blind spot about values. Perhaps she could help it, as her early years were spent carelessly and there was no need for conserving articles of value. She was not entirely to blame, but those responsible for her learning carelessness as a child were.

There is a certain amount of natural destructiveness in all children that must be allowed for, naturally. There are exploration, curiosity and impulsiveness, all of which contribute to the ruin of toys and belongings. But as the years pile up every child simply must have his eyes opened to the need for care.

I like the old-fashioned idea of keeping certain clothes for Sunday best. Of having good dishes for company and fine sheets for visitors.

The house run on such a plan transmits its principles to the children. There must be respect for all things. And for a child to care for the occasional sets an instinct of providence.

Another excellent idea is to let the boy or girl see how hard it is to make things, also how hard it is to earn the money to buy them. Easy come, easy go," is as true as it ever was, easier, I sometimes think, in this day of ready-made living.

PRACTICAL LESSON

I knew a father who took his boy to his drug store and made his deliver packages after school. The boy worked for a month, and then his dad let him off. "Your new bicycle would take ten weeks to pay for, son, working that way. It takes me literally days, working hard putting up difficult prescriptions, to pay for it. When you get your wheel, you will see how important it is to take care of it."

Mother makes Louise a dress. "Louise," she says, "I'm very tired, as you see. I hope you won't spill ink on it, or tear it. I made it instead of buying it, in order to get you shoes. Now, dear, try to be careful."

A few explanations now and then help children to realize values. No one asks the impossible, but responsibility is best set by real appreciation.

EMPIRE EXCHANGE SCHEME INCLUDES WOMEN REPORTERS

WINNIPEG, June 22—Empire exchange of women reporters has been brought within reach of members of the Canadian Women's Press Club, Miss Isabel C. Armstrong, president, told delegates at the opening of the eighth triennial convention here. The Empire Press Union has notified the C.W.P.C. that the Empire field was open to women reporters for exchange as well as men. Age limit for interchange of reporters is 35.

"The problem now is billets in the Old Country and overseas dominions," Miss Armstrong said.

Do You Know?

MAJOR ELIZABETH A. MABB

Superintendent of the Edmonton Women's Emergency Home at 10328 98 street, which is owned and supported by the Salvation Army in Edmonton and provides a cheerful and comfortable home for many destitute women and girls, was born in Tunbridge Wells, Kent, England.

Justifiably proud and happy about the progress of the home, which in the short eleven months it has been in operation has housed for different periods of time, two hundred and twelve women, Major Mabb is not new to the responsibilities falling to her as head of the home.

Receiving all of her education in the Old Country, Major Mabb took her training in social service work with the Salvation Army in the Clapton Congree Hall in London, England.

Claiming affiliation with the Salvation Army for thirty-five years, Major Mabb has spent twenty-two of those years in the Dominion of Canada doing similar work to that in which she is now engaged. Her work has taken her from the eastern tip of Canada, Cape Breton Island to the central and western portion of Ontario. In Edmonton for the past two years this is the first time Major Mabb has pursued her useful career in the west.

Major Mabb is a Corps Cadet Guardian in the Army organization for the special training of young people.

Busy all day long with the cares of the home, Major Mabb has not many minutes to count her own for her own leisure employment.

Visiting the sick in the hospital has come for Major Mabb almost a daily happening, and she has become a familiar figure to many sufferers in the hospitals.

Business address: Edmonton Women's Emergency Home, 10328 98 street.

Religion: Protestant. A member of the Salvation Army.

Miss Bergey Is New Matron Of Day Nursery

Resignation of Mrs. Edith World, matron in charge of the Edmonton Creche who has been absent from the city for several months on leave of absence, was accepted with regret at the meeting of the Edmonton Creche Society held in the Macdonald hotel one afternoon this week.

Lady Rodney, president of the Society occupied the chair during the meeting. Miss Mildred Bergey, who has been at the Creche in Mrs. World's absence was appointed to the post of matron.

Report of the Creche for the past month showed that the work of the nursery has not by any means decreased. A total of 332 attendances were noted for the past month, it was revealed, with an average daily attendance of eighteen kiddies.

Meals and bottle feedings given numbered 630. Youngest child cared for was one month, eldest eight years, it was told.

In Praise of Famous Names

The manufacturer of any good product, who advertises it consistently in the daily newspapers can, in the course of time, make his product famous.

Everybody knows and uses products whose names are famous because of the vision, faith, courage and enterprise of the owners of them.

They were not famous in the beginning, but the owners proceeded to make them "household words" by means of persistent advertising in daily newspapers. The goodwill value of these names is fabulous; so much so, indeed, that one or more of the plants in which these products are manufactured could be destroyed with less loss to the owner than the loss of the trade name.

You, too, can build sales and goodwill for your products and services by advertising in the Canadian daily newspapers.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by Thornton Purkis.

According To Culbertson

By ELY CULBERTSON

There is a time for aggressiveness and a time for discretion. Not every hand should be bid up to the hilt. I am not referring to the danger of being defeated in a contract, but to a much more subtle matter as exemplified in the following hand:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♥ 9 7 3 2
♦ 10 5 4
♣ Q 8 7 3

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 9 8 6 4 3 2	♠ K 7 5
♥ 5	♥ 10 8 4
♦ Q 9 7 2	♦ A K 3

SOUTH
♥ A K Q J 6
♦ K 9 6
♣ A 10 9 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	2 spades
2 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

After South's strong single handed bidding of North, with a nine spade trick and some club strength, felt that there might be a good play for game. But nevertheless he carefully refrained from raising. His reasoning was just this: The nonvulnerable opponents had mentioned and agreed upon the higher ranking spade suit. True, West had shown no disposition to overcall South's three hearts, but West knew this offered no assurance that he would permit a game contract by North-South to go uncontested. If North should bid four hearts and the opponents were in any doubt as to their ability to defeat the contract, they certainly would persist to four spades. Of course, considering East's mere single raise and West's apparent reluctance to rebid, it was probable that four spades could be defeated, but North had no guarantee to that effect and was not inclined to experiment. North (like all of us) had seen many a bid intended as a sacrifice turn out as a making contract and did not intend to have that happen now.

Of course all this reasoning took only a second and hence, when he passed, East hardly could know what was in his mind. Nor could East continue with his spade bidding when game was not in jeopardy.

So South played the hand at three hearts and made four without difficulty, merely through the caution of leading clubs twice through East, and finally leading up to the diamond king. Paradoxically enough, North-South made their greatest possible score through failure to bid game. They actually collected 90 points below the line and 120 above (100 honors and one extra trick, not to mention the potential value of a partscore. If North had bid four hearts West, with his freak, unquestionably would have bid four spades and that contract could have been defeated only one trick, for 100 points even if doubled. Moreover, if West's distribution had been ever so slightly different, a four spade bid, made as a sacrifice, might have been fulfilled. And then the swing would have been really serious.

When up against a superior suit and unfavorable vulnerability conditions, discretion is the better part of valor.

What To Do

By Phyllis Belmont

Would you please advise me what to do? My boy friend insists it is proper when we are in a restaurant for me to give the order to the waiter myself. But I think I should tell him what I want and he should then order for both of us. Which is proper? Thank you.

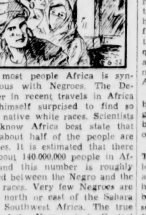

MISS M. S. N.

Answer — You are absolutely right. When a man and woman are having dinner in a restaurant, after they are seated, the waiter hands each a menu card and, after looking it over, the man asks the woman what she prefers and generally makes a suggestion or two himself. After they have each decided what they want, he gives the order for both to the waiter. However, if the woman's selection is quite complicated, it might be easier for her to give it direct to the waiter. But this is an exception rather than the rule.

A nautical mile, at any place on earth, is considered to be equal to the length of one minute of latitude at that place; since the earth is not a perfect sphere, the nautical mile varies with the latitude.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

To most people Africa is synonymous with Negroes. The Debunker in recent travels in Africa was himself surprised to find so many native white races. Scientists who know Africa best state that only about half of the people are Negroes. It is estimated that there are about 140,000,000 people in Africa and this number is roughly divided between the Negro and the white races. Very few Negroes are found north or east of the Sahara or in Southeast Africa. The true home of the Negroes is in Central Africa, particularly in the Sudan.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR MISS DIX: Some years ago I was left a widower, since which time I have given my children my undivided devotion, time and all the financial means at my disposal. Now they are all grown and working except one boy, who will soon be 15. I love my children dearly and they have well rewarded all my care and sacrifices, but now they have gone about the business of life for themselves and I am not selfish enough to wish it otherwise. I am nearing 50, have good health and have kept myself young sharing the joys and problems of my family. For a long time I have been curbing a desire for the association and companionship of some woman of my own age, but have refrained from marriage fearing to put a stepmother over the children. Now that they no longer need me, except the boy, would you advise me to marry again and try to fill my last years with understanding companionship, or would it be best for me to continue living with and for my children? A DEVOTED DADDY.

Answer:

I think you would be very wise to marry, provided you made a suitable choice of a wife. By that I mean if you marry a woman in your own age class who has a virtually similar background to yours and one whom you have known long enough and well enough to be sure of her character and disposition. Any such woman would be a good matrimonial risk, especially if she was a childless widow or an old maid.

I am strong for the marriage of the middle-aged because as we grow older and are less inclined to seek diversion abroad, the more we are compelled to find our happiness in our own homes, the more we need some cheerful and congenial companion to bear us company and to whom we can say, "Don't you remember?"

It is a dreary thing for a man or woman to eat meals with no one to talk to but Fido or the cat, and to spend long solitary evenings killing time reading about the last murder or playing Idiots' Delight. Yet this is the fate of countless elderly widowers who have long been mates, but are kept from marrying by thinking they are too old, or that their friends will criticize them, or because their children object.

Yet these oldsters need husbands and wives just as much as the young do and have just as good a chance of happiness in marriage. For even if they cannot inspire in each other a passionate and romantic love, they can give each other beautiful and abiding friendship, and that is what all happy marriages come to in the end. Moreover, the marriage of an elderly couple serves two good ends that justifies it, if nothing else did.

It enables them to have their own home and live in peace, dignity and independence, instead of being driven by sheer loneliness into living either with their children's homes where they have to be on either rubber stamps or else firebrands. And it saves the children's homes from the eternal friction that is always engendered by having a mother-in-law or a father-in-law in them.

It is folly to talk about children and parents suffering each other for companionship, no matter how devoted they are to each other. They belong to different generations and that space of time even love doesn't bridge when it comes to mutual understanding. The children are bored with father's and mother's reminiscences and with their preferences for people and pleasures and amusements of which they have never heard. And father and mother find their children's conversation about things of which they know nothing and in which they take no interest equally dull. So the two soon talk out.

It is only the people of our own age with whom we are really companionable, and that is why it is a good thing for the elderly to remarry.

DOROTHY DIX.

This Man, Joe Murray

By WILLIAM CORCORAN

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOE MURRAY, liked new places, new jobs, new girls.

HELEN, fell in love—hard—once.

TERRY MALLON, found love—and kept it!

Yesterday: Joe takes part in a gas station holdup, is struck sick at his core, feels the time has come that night on a passenger train . . . alone.

CHAPTER XIX

THAT was how Joe at long last came to let them know at home his movements. He was forced to the step. He never saw Red again after that quick farewell at the mouth of the alley. He traveled far that night, and he saw nothing in the newspapers in another state about the shooting. What finally happened, he never learned. But he knew that the police of the nation were informed, and that the jungles, the camps, the highways and the yards were being searched and dragged and watched for a thousand miles around.

Joe made up a presentable bundle out of what he stuffed with rags and papers and tied with rope, all secured at a city dump, and registered in a cheap hotel on the strength of his baggage, and then wrote by air mail, telling the Murrays where he was, that he was in trouble and must lay low, and that he needed money to keep up the front. He gave no details; he said that he dared not travel or frequent the places of his kind until a storm blew over, and that they need only help him a little while. And they must not talk.

After the letter was dispatched, he spent four days in his room, going out only at night to scour the back ways of the city for a scrap of food.

Money arrived on the fifth day. The letter was a quick scrawl, to lose no time. Most everything was as he had left it at home. Terry had given up her flat and moved back to her home. They did not see so much of her now. Dad was fine, working steady, but less money. Irene was still looking. Tommy Wilbee's was the lucky one: an eighty dollar charge of maintenance, and well off. Here was a little money, all that was at hand. More would follow. Did he want his carfare home? They could manage somehow. Wouldn't he be best at home, safest? He must write immediately and send word.

It was a Spartan letter, without rebuke or tear; that was Mrs. Murray writing.

Joe wrote, thanking them all, but he stayed where he was.

Joe's reasons were vague, not well defined. He felt that his home was a sentimental thought, but useless. Going home was giving up. God knows, there was little to give up, but that little was too closely identified with his manhood, somehow! He could bring himself to drag them all in their trouble, but not for his daily keep. Maybe he'd find work; it was some time now since he had settled down and looked for it, to exhaustion.

And so a new way of life was launched. The hotel was an ancient institution on a downtown street in a city that you would know very well indeed if I named it. The hotel had long had its day, to the extent that Joe's room rent him two and a half per week. Another dollar or two kept him in food, with a little skirmishing around to help out. The weather was coming warmer, and he was comfortable, if quickly and thoroughly disillusioned about work. Day after day, and the cops did not molest him—nor, he was to find, would they ever.

What he missed those days was companionship. The city left him utterly alone. He found why the jungles were thronged and the yards and highways overrun. To be working and alone was bad; to be idle and alone was worse, and unnecessary. You could have companionship for the asking by taking to the road; the worse off you were, the closer the bond with your myriad fellows. It was like huddling together of the doomed, but it was companionship.

Joe was alone again, and a prisoner this time. He saw himself, that afternoon, in the company of his kind, with companionship . . .

Sleep Best Tonic For Tired Out Complexion

By ALICIA HART

There is no better beauty treatment for tired skin which has muddy or sallow undertones, than eight or nine hours of deep, restful sleep every night for a week. If your face lacks that alive, rested look and your skin seems to have aged ten years in two or three weeks, try the simple sleep treatment before any other.

Resolve to go to bed every night at least half an hour before the time that you know you must fall asleep if you are to get your nine hours. If you are even faintly given to insomnia, better not read anything that makes you think or worry. Save your serious reading matter for later. This is your week to sleep soundly and long, and consequently to lift about five years from your face.

Do a few limbering and stretching exercises to take the kinks out of your neck and then take a bath in water at body temperature before you go to bed. Clean face and throat carefully (incidentally, unless your skin is ultra sensitive, scrub with a complexion brush) and smooth on your richest night cream.

If the weather is hot, be sure that the air in the room circulates. If all of the windows are on one side, and the wind doesn't happen to be blowing from that direction, then put a small electric fan opposite the windows and tilt it toward the ceiling. Don't turn it toward the bed, of course.

Your bed should be neither too hard nor too soft. The bottom sheet ought to be perfectly smooth. If you sleep on your back, try to get along without a pillow. Otherwise, use a small one. And two light blankets are much better than one fairly heavy quilt.

BEACH LOUNGING

It's a wise woman who acquires her summer tan in small doses—she does lounging togs for relaxation after that morning dip. Comfortable, yet utterly charming, are loose Chinese trousers of deep plum worn with a long-sleeved navy pink shirt. Trousers are tied at the waist and the wind doesn't happen to be blowing from that direction, then put a small electric fan opposite the windows and tilt it toward the ceiling. Don't turn it toward the bed, of course.

Your bed should be neither too hard nor too soft. The bottom sheet ought to be perfectly smooth. If you sleep on your back, try to get along without a pillow. Otherwise, use a small one. And two light blankets are much better than one fairly heavy quilt.

ROMANY ROMANCE

There's glamor and romance in a cotton kerchief—or, more accurately, dozens of cotton kerchiefs. A clever designer has created charming evening frocks of vivid flowery pink chintz or cotton percale, and fitted to give a flattering, youthful silhouette. And if the evening gown is a success, perhaps you would like to have a daytime frock of the same colorful print.

Etiquette of Fork and Finger Foods

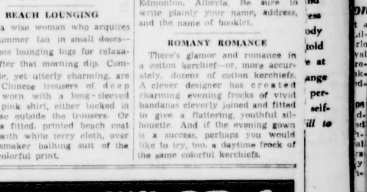

Avoid These Blunders

Fork or fingers—which? It's certainly important to know!

Olives led Mary Jones to make a slip. Wanting to be oh, so nice before a new man friend, she speared them with a fork, instead of eating them with her fingers. An innocent piece of loaf cake (not iced) inspired Alice Drew to flourishes with a fork. She really should have known that fingers are impissible. (A fork is strictly necessary only on gooey cake.) And that cloth sandwich! Best tackle it with a fork nex time, Jean—if you value your social reputation!

Easy as pie to avoid such slips as these! Order our 32-page booklet and make yourself complete mistress of table etiquette. It tells the full story of how to be the perfect, charming companion at table!

Send 10c in coins for your copy of Good Table Manners to The Edmonton Bulletin Home Service, Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

LONDON CLOSING

LONDON, June 22—Early gains were chopped down in late trading in the stock exchange today. Industrials continued in demand, especially steel and machinery shares. Oils and metals were firm and Kaffirs were about steady. Trans-Atlantics followed Tuesday's rise in Wall Street. Gilt-edged securities ended higher.

Brazil, $11½; Int. Nick., $45½; U.S. Steel, $46⅛; Brit. Am. Tob., 98s 9d; Cable & Wireless, £46½; H. B. C., 21s; Woolworth, 62s 6d.

Bonds: Brit. 2½ p.c. consols, £74⅛; Brit. 3½ p.c. war loan, £101¾; British funding 4s, 1960-90, £113.

GOLD AND SILVER

LONDON, June 22—Bar gold, 140s 10d, up ½ penny. Equivalent $34.88. Bar silver, 18 15-16d, unchanged.

MONTREAL, June 22—Bar gold in London up two cents to $35.26 in Canadian funds, 140s 10d in British. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $33.37 in Canadian.

GRAIN INSPECTIONS

WINNIPEG, June 22—Grain inspections Tuesday: Wheat, this year 81, last year 259, cars of contract wheat 76, oats 13-26, barley 10-3, flax 0-6, rye 1-2, other grains 0-2.

WHEAT PRICES CLOSE LOWER

WINNIPEG, June 22—Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1⅛-¾ cent lower today after a dull session in which prices moved listlessly within a two-cent range. July finished at 108, October 86¾-⅞, November 85⅞a, December 83⅞-84 cents.

Prices opened firm and at the half-way mark were fractionally lower due to influence of lower outside markets. More favorable reports were received from the United States southwest winter wheat belt but these were offset by damage reports from North Dakota in the spring wheat area.

Chicago dipped about a cent. Buenos Aires slumped ⅛-½ cent.

Spreads for No. 1 and 3 northern grades of red springs declined two cents and No. 2 northern a cent. No. 3 durum improved ½ cent. Cash wheat trade was quiet.

Most coarse grains eased fractionally.

The foreigners have not been willing to follow the recent advance and importers have practically withdrawn from the market. This lack of buying power is disconcerting to those friendly to the market and may offset the speculative buying which, together with the increasing hedge pressure as the harvesters reach the important producing areas of Kansas next month could be too heavy for the ... markets to withstand. With such a large acreage now under cultivation, even rust damage loses a lot of its significance.

FIGHT AGAINST CRIME MAKING RAPID STRIDES

together, the fight against crime will be difficult," he warned.

"The policeman on the beat is no longer just a watchman. He must know how to gather and preserve and present evidence. He must realize the psychology of youth, and his personal life must be such that every boy who knows him may make a hero out of him. He should be the counsellor and guide of the young people in his district. And youth must be taught to look at the policeman as a protector, instead of an oppressor," he said.

PREVENTING CRIME

"His duty is not alone to apprehend the guilty after the commission of a crime, but it is also that of preventing crime," he said.

"We have made progress in the fight but crime is on the increase. Last year in the United States there were 1,415,816 serious crimes, such as murder, robbery, rape, burglary, an increase of six per cent over the year before.

"Despite these records we cannot turn back. We cannot permit the inroads of organized crime to entwine its tentacles, crushing out the existence of decent, honest people. We must carry on the fight against crime."

SPIRITED PERSONNEL

Success can only be effected through an efficiently trained, spirited personnel in the law enforcing agencies which will honestly give the problem every attention, he claimed.

"We have no time for petty jealousies," he declared in pleading for co-operation among law enforcing bodies.

"Police should be carefully selected, given the best possible training and equipment, and they must be given the support of the public. Without that support we are helpless," he said. "We must carry on a campaign of education," he advised.

An address, prepared by Inspector W. W. Watson of the R.C.M.P. on the subject of "Science vs. Crime" was read by Inspector W. Mortimer. It dealt with the values of scientific principles in crime detection and outlined the work which was being done, particularly in the question of fingerprinting.

JUVENILE WORK

George B. Henwood, K.C., deputy-attorney general of Alberta spoke on work being done among juveniles.

He paid tribute to the work being done by the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides and stated that "boys love a uniform."

"Alberta has been recognized as a leader in the experiment of curing juvenile offenders by the "foster home" scheme, of putting boys who get into trouble in the charge of persons who will take an active interest in their welfare, and we have had much success in this work," he claimed.

Speaking on the question of "Transient Labor and 'Don't Work' Organizations", Chief J. Cusack of Kapuskasing, Ontario, stated that 132 transients were killed while trespassing on the railways last year. He claimed that more attention should be paid to the problem of the transient unemployed, and that every effort should be made to stamp out organizations which attempted to sow the seed of "various isms" among the discontented youth and unemployed.

FINGERPRINT TRANSIENTS

G-man Pieper suggested that some solution to the transient problem might be solved by fingerprinting all transients taken from trains. "In this manner many wanted criminals would be picked up and the others would be discouraged," he suggested.

Staff Inspector J. A. Grant of the Highway Patrol of Ontario suggested that to stop the transients riding the rods was no solution to the problem. "These men are going to keep moving and if they are taken off the trains they will take to the roads. And if many of them start walking along the highways many of them will be run down and killed. We have to solve that problem so as to stop them moving," he claimed.

Shortly after noon the meeting adjourned and the delegates drove by auto to Elk Island Park where a picnic was held during the afternoon.

Street Railway Program Awaits Further Discussion

Officials Urge Quick Start on Rehabilitation

City Council Tables Question as Commissioner Asks Tenders be Called For Supply of Trackless Trolley Busses

Unwilling to decide on a proposed two-year $263,826 street railway improvement program, including $120,000 for the purchase of six trackless, electrically-operated trolley busses, city council Tuesday tabled the question for further consideration at next Monday's meeting.

This program was recommended by Commissioner Robert J. Gibb, who explained that $150,000 of the amount needed could be obtained from the federal government in the form of a loan. Two per cent Dominion government money will be available to municipalities soon for self-liquidating public works, the street railway rehabilitation being classed as such.

URGE ACTION

Both Commissioner Gibb and Street Railway Supt. Thomas Ferrier stressed the need of starting rehabilitation work as soon as possible.

As a first step in this direction, Mr. Gibb proposed that the city call for tenders for the supply of six trolley busses to operate on a new route from Whyte Avenue and 99 street to tie car barns. It was estimated these machines would cost $120,000, the balance of the suggested $263,826 expenditure being made up of overhead wire construction for trolley bus use, $70,636, and paving, etc., $73,190.

NEW ROUTE

Commissioner Gibb proposed to council that the busses be operated on the following new route: from Whyte Avenue and 99 Street north along 99 Street, down Scona Hill, over the Low Level bridge, up McDougall Hill, north to 102 avenue, west to 102 street, south to Jasper avenue, east to 95 street and north to 111 avenue. Overhead power lines would also be constructed to take the busses into the car barns but it is not proposed to operate a regular service over this stretch at the outset.

If this plan were adopted present tram service on 99 street from Whyte avenue to the Low Level bridge and from Jasper to 111 avenue on 85 street would be discontinued.

Replying to questions by aldermen, Commissioner Gibb emphasized the fact that street railway system over the next few years would require substantial expenditures for track and rolling stock

MAYOR PLEASED WITH SHOWING OF POLICEMEN

Present at the inspection of the city police force in the Prince of Wales Armouries Tuesday night, Mayor John W. Fry said Wednesday he was pleased with the fine showing made by the police as they went through the drill under the direction of Sgt.-Maj. Alex Riddell.

Delegates to the convention of the Chief Constables Association being held in Edmonton this week also witnessed the inspection, which was followed by boxing bouts and a display of ju-jitsu.

"I'm sure the visitors were impressed with the showing made by the Edmonton force," the mayor said. "They looked very natty in their uniforms and the high standard shown in their drill reflects credit on their drill sergeant, Sgt.-Maj. Riddell."

SUN FILTERS WAY THROUGH SMOKE SCREEN

Fighting against layers of smoke hovering over the city, the sun was making a stout effort to pierce the haze Wednesday morning, but the sunshine reaching Edmonton at 9 a.m. was pretty well filtered.

Heavy smoke on Tuesday hampered Old Sol considerably, the highest temperature for the day being only 72 above, registered at 3 p.m. During Tuesday night, the thermometer went down as far as 46 above, at 5 a.m.

By 9 a.m. Wednesday, the mercury was at 63 above, and the forecast was once again "warm."

Eyebrows were raised in mild surprise in Edmonton at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, at first a few drops of water and then a steady drizzle dropped down through the smoky haze and turned in on a job of wetting the city. Gardeners greeted the moisture with broad smiles and figured on playing the hosepipe a great Wednesday evening.

Not a drop of rain fell in the near north to relieve the dry condition of the land, the 8:30 a.m. report from the area including only smoke clouds. Fort Vermilion alone of the entire near northern area reported clear atmosphere. Temperatures ranged from 41 above, at Calling River, to 48 above, at Grouard and Hudson Hope.

Fort Smith was warmest in the far north at 5 a.m. Wednesday, with 52 above, while Mayo was coolest with 30 above.

OPEN SEASON ON SOUTH ELK IS PROPOSED

May be Effective This Year Due to Increase in Number of Animals

Increase in the number of elk in Southern Alberta probably will result in the declaration of an open season on same this year—the first in many years—according to W. H. Wallace, provincial fish and game commissioner, who has returned from an inspection trip of the southern section of the province, which took him as far south as Waterton Lakes. He was accompanied by Geo. M. Sparge, director of fisheries.

Mr. Wallace stated that a large increase in the number of ducks had been noticed in that part of the province.

Inspection of fur farms and the Waterton hatchery also took place. Fur ranches in Calgary were inspected.

LOSS TO RANCHERS

There has been a loss in these ranches, Mr. Wallace stated. Resulting from this an inspection was made of the Highwood river and Fish Creek, for pollution and already two convictions have been registered in court from prosecutions arising from pollution and four other cases are pending.

At Waterton hatchery, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Sparge inspected 200,000 cut-throat trout eggs which had been received from Montana.

Also, they said, there are 300,000 fry ready for distribution in nine ponds in the Waterton area.

10,000 LAKE TROUT

Mr. Wallace stated that there are 10,000 lake trout averaging seven inches long being placed in ponds outside the Waterton hatchery.

Water conditions are reported good, with water high. Fishing conditions are reported only fair.

FORMER CIVIC OFFICER DIES IN COAST CITY

Thomas E. Lord, former food inspector for the Edmonton health department, died in Victoria, B.C., Tuesday from a heart attack. He was 62 years of age and was stricken while visiting friends in the coast city.

His death came 25 years, almost to the day, after the late date on which he joined the Edmonton health service, last January and was planning to take up residence at the coast with Mrs. Lord.

Born in Lancashire, Mr. Lord came to Canada in 1905, farming in the Wabamun district before coming to Edmonton in 1906. He was recognized as an expert on food inspection, and was well known in the city.

TO OPEN FIRST AID DEPOT AT SEBA, JULY 1

To give first aid to holiday makers at Seba Beach and to take care of the scores of minor accidents which happen at a holiday resort during the summer season, the St. John Ambulance Association, Edmonton division, will open a first aid station at Seba on July 1 according to an announcement from ambulance headquarters today. At first the station will only be operated on week-ends and holidays, but later it is hoped to make it an all-summer first aid depot.

Seba beach will be the first resort at which a first aid station will be located, but later it is hoped to have similar stations established at all the holiday resorts adjacent to the city.

As an indication of the minor accidents in which first aid stations are of assistance, officials of the organization point out that last year at the Edmonton Exhibition 130 cases were taken care of during exhibition week.

Building Work Totals $13,000 For Three Days

City building department issued construction permits totalling $13,000 during the first three days of the week, according to figures available Wednesday.

Larger permits issued recently follow: A. P. Quigley, frame and stucco dwelling at 10046 79 avenue, $2,650; F. E. Coe, frame dwelling at 9510 103 street, $2,200; S. Fermor, addition and repairs to dwelling at 11723 125 street, $600. Wm. Rusnak, alteration and repairs to rooming house at 10279 98 street, $500; Mary E. Bard, alterations to dwelling for four suites at 10544 84 avenue, $1,200; John Stechechyhin, frame dwelling at 13210 73 street, $300; Credit Foncier, F.C., reroofing for dwelling and minor repairs at 11127 63 street, $200

North Freight Rate Cut Important Step Mine Development

R. C. Marshall, President of North West Chamber of Mines, Pleased at 20 Per Cent. Reduction—Will Go North

Freight rate reductions over the Northern Alberta Railways for mining operators who are heavy shippers into the North West Territories will be considerable, said R. C. Marshall, president of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines, and with Leonard E. Drummond, M.E., secretary-manager of the chamber, one of those mainly responsible for the reduced rates being put into effect.

"We have been working on the matter for some time," said Mr. Marshall, "and are pleased at the ultimate result attained. The existing rate on the N.A.R. was 59 per cent above the prairie schedule and 27½ per cent over the Pacific schedule, and when we first took this matter up with the heads of the freight departments of the two railroads and officials at Ottawa we were offered a ten per cent reduction. Further representations resulted in the 20 per cent reduction being allowed, and we are over-joyed to General Manager MacArthur of the N.A.R. for his assistance in this matter. We found him co-operative and sympathetic at all times, and although it took some months to get the reductions, and we were not successful in getting them made retroactive to the beginning of the season, we feel that the reductions we have secured will do much to stimulate mining development in the area for which Edmonton is the point of shipment."

Mining operators who have written into the Chamber of Mines also declare this endeavor of that organization to be the most important item since its formation and are enthusiastic in their appreciation of the efforts of Mr. Marshall and Mr. Drummond.

The two officials are also receiving commendation for their work in bringing the condition of the mine at Fort McMurray to the attention of Ottawa, resulting in a decision to dredge a channel to deep water and keep it open in future. Work on the dredging will get under way this summer and it is proposed to keep a dredge in operation every season following the opening up of the channel. This will greatly facilitate freighting operations from the end of steel and enable shippers to keep boats moving once the river and lake ice is out. At present, and also during last season, low water hampered shipping considerably.

Mr. Marshall is shortly taking a flying trip into the North West Territories during which he will visit all mining centres now in operation in order to get first hand information of their problems and requirements.

The Inquiring Reporter

Miss Margaret Bondfield, tiny lady who became the first woman member of any British cabinet when she sat as minister of labor in the Labor government has been telling Canadian audiences that the trend to greater public control of industry is inevitable. "Do you think that events in Canada will bear out the truth of this opinion?" asks Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked.

Here are the replies received:

MRS. A. H. GARDINER, president, Women's Liberal Association: I think it is impossible to lay down any general law, without reference to specific cases. Where it is in the interest of public good to have government intervention, we undoubtedly will have it. But intervention simply for the sake of intervention is futile. I do feel, though, that Miss Bondfield is right in pointing to the need for a more alert public conscience to see it, by public action, if necessary, that private power is not allowed to take precedence over the communal good.

C. D. WATSON, merchant: I may be old-fashioned, but I must view further public control of business with a good deal of scepticism.

LYLE McLEAN, member of C.C.F.: The history of economic progress shows that governments have had to control business more and more and, as Miss Bondfield says, even the Conservative party of England has had to pass measures initiated by the Labor party. I think that what is true of Great Britain will be true of Canada as well.

A judicial separation was granted Mrs. Mary Frances Waterfield, Vancouver, from her husband, James H. Waterfield, by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie in supreme court on Monday afternoon. Divorce actions brought by both parties were dismissed. The court fixed alimony at $40 monthly for the wife and two children of the marriage.

FREE ADMISSION TO EXHIBITION FOR UNEMPLOYED

In line with a policy adopted by the Edmonton Exhibition Association several years ago, arrangements have again been made this year to give unemployed men and their families free admission to the summer fair on Thursday of fair week, July 18 to 23.

Fair Manager Percy W. Abbott, K.C., stated that hours at which jobless would be admitted to the grounds would be announced later. It is expected, however that they will be passed through the gates on the afternoon of Thursday, July 21 being privileged to remain in the grounds until midnight.

Unemployed heads of families will be required to present their relief credentials at the admission gate and must be accompanied by the other members of their families.

WATERS WEST OF RED DEER RECEIVE FISH

Re-stocking of waterways west of Red Deer with 400,000 speckled trout from the Banff hatchery is now under way by the provincial fisheries branch, George M. Sparge, director of provincial fisheries announced on Wednesday.

Of the total to be placed in streams and other water bodies in the territory west of Red Deer, about 80,000 already have been placed.

The work as a whole will require about two weeks to complete, said Mr. Sparge.

The work is under the direct supervision of J. E. Martin of the Banff hatchery, assisted by Fisheries Inspector Travers.

BIDS CALLED ON SUBSTATION FOR STREET RAILWAY

Tenders are due at city hall Friday for the construction of a new power station south of 107 avenue on the east side of 124 street. The one-storey reinforced concrete and brick station will house a rectifier changing alternating current to direct current for street railway use. The total cost of the project being estimated at between $23,000 and $24,000.

Cost of the building will be approximately $5,000, balance of the expenditure being required for equipment. It was reported that the installation would effect a saving of 15 per cent. in the operation of street cars in the West End, as it will reduce existing power losses due to low voltage.

It is expected the building will be started next week, being completed in about six weeks' time.

B. C. PHYSICAL FITNESS SCHEME OUTLINED HERE

Address on the physical fitness scheme in British Columbia by Ian Eisenhardt, director of physical education for that province, who is at present visiting in Edmonton as the guest of the Alberta government, featured a meeting of the Edmonton Youth Council in McDougall church on Tuesday evening. Supplementing the program were several reports from delegates to the youth conference held in eastern Canada in May.

Dr. G. F. McNally was chairman for the evening's program.

Patterned on the ancient Greek ideal of gymnastics — a continual building of mentality and physique throughout life, the scheme in B.C. aims at the harmonious development of muscle, thus obtaining a national fitness which brings contentment and happiness.

"Sports and games," Mr. Eisenhardt said, "have the disadvantage of developing only one set of muscles, whereas in gymnastics, exercises are so selected to take care of all parts of the body."

A uniform program is aimed at students themselves participate in planning it, instructors being selected, but being able and skilled men and having an excellent knowledge of the human body.

Success of the movement in B.C. may be measured by the continual growth in numbers, from 3,000 four years ago to 22,000 today.

Joseph M. McKenzie, president of the Edmonton Youth Council and chairman of the Alberta delegation to the youth congress, spoke on several aspects of the congress.

Other delegates giving their impressions of the congress were Eddie Wing, member of the Chinese Benevolent Society; William Repka, delegate from the Young Communist League; Miss Mary Manion, delegate from J-Mah-Ke-G club, Miss Margaret McCollum, delegate from the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement; Helmer Hobger, delegate from 2 Plus 2 club, and Louis Heard, delegate from the Beacon Social Credit group No. 1.

MAYOR FRY TO SEE PREMIER ABOUT LOAN

Instructed by city council Tuesday to negotiate with Ottawa with a view to obtaining Edmonton share of the $30,000,000 Dominion government two per cent loan for self-liquidating public works undertaken by Canadian municipalities, Mayor John W. Fry will interview Premier William Aberhart Friday morning before making representations to Ottawa.

Mayor Andrew Davison, Calgary and Mayor D. H. Elton, K.C., Leth bridge, will also attend Friday's conference for the purpose of determining the provincial government's intentions with respect to the proposal that the province guarantee federal loans made to Alberta municipalities and approve public works projects proposed by municipalities.

City Solicitor Thomas Garside will also attend Friday's meeting.

Youth Drowns In Snye At McMurray

McMURRAY, June 22— Raymi Bergeron, 24, was drowned in the Snye near the McMurray airport Tuesday afternoon when he was tipped from the canoe he was paddling before a boat could be launched. There were several others in the bank who witnessed the accident, but if Bergeron had disappeared under the water and could not be found.

Dragging operations are now under for Bergeron, who was a painter and sign writer, recently coming to McMurray from Athabasca.

Hannibal, Carthaginian general, attempted to accomplish with elephants the tasks performed in modern warfare by armored tanks. Men armed with spears and shields, bows and arrows, rode troops of elephants into the enemy ranks. The animals, panicky with fright, were hard to control, and the experiment was decidedly unsuccessful.

Former Labor Minister Predicts Socialist Government In Britain

CHANGE WILL COME ABOUT PEACEFULLY

Rt. Hon. Margaret Bondfield Sees Evolution Of Democracy

VANCOUVER, June 22—Rt. Hon. Margaret Bondfield, former Labor minister in the British cabinet, said in an address here last night she "believed" a socialist government would rise to power in Great Britain "within a decade."

Speaking before the Canadian conference on social work here, Miss Bondfield said it was her opinion the Socialist state would not come by violent revolution, but "By the consent of the governed, through the maintenance of the principles of free speech, the right of public meetings and a free press."

MAY SEE REVOLUTION

"But," she continued, "if these healthy channels of democratic expression are thwarted or abused by vested interests on either side, by groups of people in a community who refuse to face the facts of modern industrialism, then the morbid story of revolution, repression and reaction may come even to our democratic countries."

While improvement and extension of social services was being urged the human problem of the right use of leisure had to be considered.

"The leisure thrust into the world by the improvement of productive processes has appeared for far too many people under the dread form of purposeless idleness," Miss Bondfield said.

RELIEF ESSENTIAL

She said the unemployment situation in any highly industrialized country made government organization of relief essential. Even in countries where land was available for a large proportion of the population, modern research had demonstrated that government planning was advantageous.

Miss Bondfield said she had "only admiration for the work done to help the unemployment situation in the United States." She had referred previously to the Works Progress Administration, Public Works Administration, "and the great organization of the Tennessee Valley."

JEAN KUCZER

youthful Winnipeg soprano, heard on CBC "Concert Orchestra" programs with Marius Benoist, comes of a musical family. Her father, Ivan Tomko Kuczer, is maker of musical instruments, whose violins, 'cellos, and violas have been used and praised by famous artists like Felix Salmond, and the members of the Hart House String Quartet. Her brother, Michael Kuczer, violinist, is a distinguished graduate of the Royal College of Music, London, and a painter in oils, whose works are now on exhibition at the National Gallery. Miss Kuczer herself has had many successful stage, concert, and radio engagements in western Canada.

Anti-National Attitudes Province Heads Assailed

OTTAWA, June 22. — Anti-national attitudes of certain provincial premiers were assailed in the House of Commons last night by H. E. Brunelle (Lib., Champlain) as he spoke in the budget debate and advocated unemployment insurance and a vigorous back-to-the-land movement as remedies for the problem of unemployment and relief.

"The time has come when it is no longer safe to treat the anti-national attitudes of certain provincial premiers with silent contempt," he said. "Unemployment under the British North America Act is a provincial matter. Unemployment insurance is also a provincial matter. Let the provinces settle these matters and if they cannot settle them let them step aside for the Dominion.

"The working men of this country want unemployment insurance and they should have it. They should not be deprived of it simply because of the narrow attitude of a couple of provincial premiers."

BUDGET DEBATE MAY BE CLOSED BY WEEK-END

OTTAWA, June 22—Termination of the budget debate on Thursday night or Friday loomed as a possibility today as whips made a check-up of their lists of speakers.

The lists showed 15 Liberals, three Conservatives, five Social Crediters, J. S. Taylor (Ind., Nanaimo) and J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, yet to speak in the debate but a number of Liberals were to confine their remarks to 10 minutes each.

The line-up does not include speeches by either Prime Minister Mackenzie King or Conservative leader R. B. Bennett. They may decide later to enter the debate.

There is considerable doubt whether business can be completed in time for prorogation July 2. Three sitting daily will probably start next week.

PARACHUTE IS STOLEN AFTER JUMP IS MADE

REGINA, June 22—Professional parachute jumper from Winnipeg Nick Szun counted on a loss of around $485 on his last jump before a crowd at the Regina airport Sunday night while city police were looking for Regina's first parachute thieves.

The theft happened after Szun made a double parachute jump cutting one chute loose and landing with the other. The first parachute floated to a field west of the airport where a group of men in a car gathered the big silk umbrella up, stowed it in their car and drove away.

COMMONS AND UPPER HOUSE IN STALEMATE

OTTAWA, June 22.—The Senate and the House of Commons became stalemated Tuesday on the act amending the Farmers Creditors Arrangement Act. An amendment to the measure made by the senate was rejected by the commons, but the upper house insists on its amendment, and the matter rests at that for the time being.

Customary procedure now is for the commons to ask for conference with the senate so attempts may be made to iron out the difficulty.

The bone of contention between the two houses is the clause the senate inserted into the bill to automatically terminate the Farmers Creditors Arrangement Act in all provinces except Alberta and Saskatchewan at the end of the present year.

OLD CAPITAL OF NEW FRANCE IS CONGRESS CENTRE

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, June 22—Quebec, ancient capital of a country whose pioneers three centuries ago sowed the seed of Roman Catholicism among inhabitants of New France, was ready today to welcome to Canada's first national Eucharistic congress thousands who have embraced the faith brought from France by their forebears.

Hundreds of bishops, priests and nuns from the 12 ecclesiastical provinces of the Dominion have arrived for the congress, opening Thursday morning after a civic reception tonight.

The clergy form only a small part of the 100,000 visitors expected during the congress. Hotels and boarding-houses of the city, which has a normal population of 150,000 are expected to be overtaxed. Schools have been converted into dormitories for nuns and visiting school-children. Accommodation has been provided even in Victoria Park in downtown Quebec, where a small city of khaki and white has risen beside St. Charles river.

Dr. F. S. Patch Named To Head Medic Society

HALIFAX, June 22—Dr. F. S. Patch, of Montreal, was named president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association Tuesday. He will succeed Dr. K. A. MacKenzie, of Halifax, next year.

Dr. T. H. Leggett, immediate past president, was named chairman of the general council. Dr. Slater Lewis, of Montreal, was elected honorary treasurer of the society.

Provincial representatives of the executive committee include: Doctors Gordon Kenning, Victoria; W. S. Galbraith, Lethbridge, Alta.; J. E. Bionmer, Moose Jaw, Sask.

Senior membership will be granted to Doctors Allen W. Lafferty, Lethbridge, and George Sinclair Gordon, Vancouver.

Pet Python, Fed Guinea Pig, Gives Up Big Blanket

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 22.—Roma the 14-foot pet python of Grace Olive Wiley, former curator of the Minneapolis pu'ic museum is feeling much better today. A large lump formed midway of her length. Miss Wiley raised a guinea pig into Roma's cage. Roma ate. In a few minutes, she began to hiccough. That went on for a day until she coughed up a blanket 4½ feet square.

Hotels Crowded In East Capital

OTTAWA, June 22.—Ottawa hotels are so crowded Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan had to sit around most of Tuesday without accommodation. There are 400 delegates attending the convention of the Society of Chemical Industry and with members, senators and the scores of industrialists, lobbyists, tourists and interested persons drawn to Ottawa by the parliamentary session, hotel accommodation is at a premium.

Nazi Tactics Seen In Moves Fascists Here

MONTREAL, June 22. — Right Rev. John C. Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, charged in an address last night "tactics which brought the Nazis into power in Germany" were now being employed by Fascists in Quebec province.

Speaking at a meeting sponsored by the people's committee against anti-Semiticism and racism, the Lord Bishop said:

"Before the Nazis rose to power they drilled an army without arms; then they bored in on the labor organizations of Germany; next came their great interest in youth. All these tactics are being employed by Fascists here."

Plea Made For Sheep Industry

CALGARY, June 22—A plea for public support to increase Canada's sheep industry was made by W. H. J. Tisdale, assistant general manager of Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited, Toronto, here Tuesday. "If we are to develop the sheep industry in western Canada we must support the sheepmen and insist on goods made with pure virgin fleece wool rather than shoddy," he said.

Eskimo Child Is Sick After Arrival Quebec

QUEBEC, June 22. — The three Eskimos who came all the way from the Arctic wastes to be present at the National Eucharistic Congress opening here today, may not be able to attend.

Priests at St. Sauveur parish here were informed seven - year - old Simon Ayarwark was ill in Montreal and as a result have countermanded the ceremony at which the lad was to have made his first holy communion in St. Sauveur church today.

The child, brought in from Chesterfield Inlet by his father, Jean Ayarwark, and another Eskimo, Alphonse Kolliierk, is thought to have been affected by the heat.

Miner Killed

CHETICAMP, N.S., June 22— One man was killed instantly and another injured in what was believed to have been a premature dynamite explosion at the National Gypsum Company's quarry near this northern Inverness county village Tuesday.

Too Much Talk Heard In Commons, Complaint

OTTAWA, June 22—The public thinks the House of Commons spends too much of its time in talk and not enough in action J. G. Turgeon (Lib., Caribou) told the Commons committee on elections Tuesday when it was considering redistribution. He thought steps should be taken in agreement with the provinces to reduce the number of members in the Commons, now 245.

The Commons asked the committee to study possibility of a better method of redistribution. At present it is done by a joint committee of the house, a practice which has caused bitterness and partisan debates.

The last redistribution was held following the 1931 census and occupied weeks in which there were bitter fights particularly in the rearrangement of constituencies in Saskatchewan and Quebec.

Suburban Neurosis Is Grave Social Problem Of Wives on Outskirts

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 22—Watch out for "suburban neurosis" if you live on the outskirts of a big city. It constitutes a grave social problem for women, in the opinion of a number of doctors.

"Suburban neurosis" is a psychological condition brought about by lack of social life.

The problem was given a thorough airing following an inquest into death of a Barnet housewife who had gassed herself. Barnet is on London's northern outskirts. The victim was 44-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Ward. Her husband said she worried unnecessarily over the health of their 4½-year-old daughter.

Dr. J. F. Elam, who testified at the inquest, contended:—thousands of women living in London's suburbs suffer from "suburban neurosis."

Out-patient departments of hospitals are full of them;

The serious attention of the medical profession has been called to this grave social evil.

Lack of human contacts and interests outside the house causes a vicious tendency to worry even though real troubles are lacking. The worry often develops into unnecessary fear about minor ailments, condition commonly known as "anxiety neurosis," according to Dr. R. Taylor of the Royal Free Hospital.

M'NEIL URGES REVISION OF MILITIA ACT

Parliamentary Control Over Canadian Forces Needed, Claim

OTTAWA, June 22—Revision of the Militia Act to establish parliamentary control over the command of Canadian forces, the imposition of compulsory service and the despatch of troops outside Canada beyond question of doubt was urged in the House of Commons last night by Grant MacNeil (C. C. F., Vancouver North).

He moved second reading of his bill to amend the Militia Act which has stood on the order paper for some time along with another bill of a similar character to amend the Naval Service Act.

AS LAW STANDS

As the law now stands, Mr MacNeil claimed, conscription could be established and troops could be sent overseas without consent of parliament.

(Leaders of the government, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett when prime minister, have said this is not so.)

TALKED OUT

No government member had a chance to speak at length on the MacNeil bill last night as Rene Pelletier (S.C., Peace River) followed the mover and talked in support of the bill until expiration of private members' hour.

The Militia Act was last revised in 1904, said Mr. MacNeil, but its essential principles had remained unchanged since 1868 and were not in keeping with the present constitutional status of Canada as a sovereign nation, equal in status to other nations in the British commonwealth.

BELLED CATS CAUSE IRE IN DRUMHELLER

DRUMHELLER, Alta., June 22. — Residents should receive more consideration than birds, was the opinion expressed by members of the city council when the question of belling the cats was introduced through a letter from the Horticultural Society last night recommending belling.

We are kept awake half the night with cats as it is now, stated one councillor, and with added noise from bells we will be kept awake all night.

CO-OP. GROWTH DESCRIBED TO TRADING GROUP

SASKATOON, June 22.—Growth of the Consumers Co-operative Association of North Kansas started with a capital of only $3,000 until it now had total assets of $800,000 was outlined here Tuesday by its president, Howard A. Cowden of that Missouri town.

Addressing delegates to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Trading Association's conference, Mr. Cowden said sales for an eight-month period in 1937 were easily more than $3,000,000.

In 1926, many co-operatives joined forces to produce a co-op tractor, he declared. Last year, purchases of co-operative societies through the central buying agency in the United States totalled more than $30,000,000.

Doctor Suffers Second Fracture

MARWAYNE, June 22—Having but recently recovered from the misfortune of a fractured hip, Dr. George Jordan, of the Mosquito Ranch, Marwayne, is again laid up with a fracture of the same femur and will be confined to Lloydminster hospital for the next two or three months.

He had only recently returned from University hospital, Edmonton, where he had been detained for 17 months, when he sustained a similar fracture.

GOEBBELS IS IN APPROVAL JEW BAITING

Propaganda Minister Rouses Crowd of 120,000 Berliners

BERLIN, June 22—Propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels last night put the stamp of official approval on the new wave of Nazi anti-Semitism and roused a crowd of 120,000 Berliners to cries of "out with the Jews—out with the Jews."

Speaking at the annual summer Solstice exercises at Olympic stadium Goebbels demanded the Nazi party rather than "the street"—meaning mobs—attend to solution of the Jewish problem.

MEASURES OF DEFENCE

He said that though he had "a full understanding of the fact the Berlin population is taking measures for its defence, I do not approve the method.

"But it is a good thing we now know what concerns are Jewish," declared the propaganda minister referring to the recent smearing of store-fronts with "Jew" in red paint.

"We will see to it that legal measures are taken so that soon Jews will have gone altogether.

BECOMING NUISANCE

"As far as those remaining are concerned all of them remember to keep out of the public view. They are beginning to be a nuisance . . .

"If the foreign press invoked our human feelings, why we will be glad to present the Jews in them.

"If people say 'why the Jews aren't doing anything,' I say they provoke us by their very presence.

"What do we care about foreign countries anyway. The world should leave us alone; we are not harming anybody."

Rain Is Needed In Saskatchewan To Assist Crops

REGINA, June 22—Saskatchewan crops have made generally satisfactory progress during the past two weeks according to reports received by the statistics branch of the provincial department of agriculture.

Lack of moisture, however, has retarded crops in the northern portion of the province and some points in southwestern Saskatchewan also need rain to stimulate growth.

Association To Make Survey On Maternity

HALIFAX, June 22—Canada ranks 22nd among countries of the world in the maternal death rate, the committee on maternal welfare reported to the Canadian Medical Association Tuesday. Twenty-six countries are on the association's list.

The association voted $2,000 towards a survey of pregnancy being made in Manitoba. The survey will cover maternal morbidity and mortality over one year. About 15,000 births will be observed.

"BE GENEROUS IN YOUR PRAISE"

BY DALE CARNEGIE

● "Have you ever watched an experienced trainer teaching a dog new tricks, or breaking him of bad habits? If you have, you'll remember that the moment the dog showed the slightest improvement, the trainer patted and praised him. Animal trainers have been using that technique for centuries and making a great success with it."

● "Why, I wonder, don't we use the same brand of common sense when trying to change people, that we use when trying to change dogs? Why don't we praise, instead of condemning? Condemnation only discourages and embitters people."

● "The world is full of happy, successful men and women who owe their success to the fact that somebody believed in them—and told them so. A little praise at the right moment can change the whole course of a person's life by inspiring self-confidence and the will to keep on trying."

Bank Robber Backed Him

Joe Sandham never hoped to take a more extraordinary trip than that rear-seat gun-mussle-directed drive he made for bank robber Ed, the Weasel. Nor was that the half of it with pretty Kelly Archer at his side. It all seamed like a dizzy dream—until Joe woke up. But then his story would wake anybody. Read

Max vs. Joe Indian Sign — Is Joe Worried?

IS only a matter of a few hours now until Louis and Schmeling get at each other in the ring for a definite settlement of all the speculation that has filled the sport pages of the world for the past month or more. this last minute once-over the question of whether or not Schmeling the Indian sign on Louis looms as possibly the factor that will turn tide of battle one way or the other.

Nobody but Joe Louis knows whether or not Joe Louis is secretly aid of the man who beat him badly before. So far Joe has stoutly intained that no such fear lurks in his mental machinery. He states at he is going to tear into Maxie and rip him to bits.

However, there is a mechanical sound to that bold threat. It gives you the impression it is a statement that he has been told to make for the benefit of the sport writers. Also the fact that the Louis camp has all sorts of carefully prepared arguments to prove that Joe is not afraid of Schmeling gives you the idea that considerable worrying has been done in the said Louis camp about this matter.

Jack Blackburn, Louis' trainer, knows all about this Indian sign ness. He himself had it on Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and a lot of ed heavyweights despite the fact he never weighed more than 140. Joe Gans had the same sign on Blackburn. Joe was a lightweight, the best Blackburn three times although Blackburn could lick guys Gans couldn't touch.

There was rough and tough old Peter Maher. Peter used to his opponents out like a carpet, but Joe Goddard of Australia could this stout Irishman any day of the week. Tiger Flowers was just ush-over for Jack Delaney, but the Tiger could whip others who ed Delaney to the limit. Brooklyn Tommy West was distinctly bad dicine for Joe Walcott. Coming down to more recent times there is e case of Barney Ross and Tony Canzoneri. Tony seemed to have ough to stop Ross, but each time they met he lost.

What's Behind This Indian Sign?

THE next question on the agenda is how come this Indian sign? It is not anything mystical, nor the result of high-powered hocus pocus fighting. It is the result of one man having certain peculiarities of style that make him a natural set-up for some other fighter who has the luck of making the most of these peculiarities. In the case of Joe Louis his is weakness for a straight right that made him lose to Schmeling. that loss has grown Joe's mind as all during the ensuing years, he ay go into the ring tonight with the Indian sign on him.

There seems to be enough grounds to believe that Blackburn at ast is worried about whether or not the champion is under the bale- l influence of that sign.

Louis Logical Choice Over Herr Max In Spite Of His Weakness For Rights

But Joe Must Attack Early And Force Pace

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(Special Bulletin Sport Writer)

NEW YORK, June 22.—Joe Louis is the logical choice to defeat Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium, June 22, but it is a hesitant vote which this observer casts for the champion.

The principal difference between them is nearly nine years in age . . . the distance a fighter slips in two years when he is past his peak and the margin another comes on while riding the crest.

While he still has a multitude of faults, Louis scarcely will make all the mistakes he made on that memorable night two years ago when Schmeling's right for the first time removed the cloak of invincibility from the Brown Bombshell. In 1936 the German and his crooked was something altogether new and extremely puzzling to the young Negro of slight imagination.

What Louis knows is what he is told, and what he was told caused him to take Schmeling lightly the last time. Smoke Joe trained hoorly. The element of surprise was on the Ferocious Frankfurter's side.

Schmeling bucks the tradition that no former heavyweight champion can regain the title. Better men than Joe French Thunder tried and failed . . . Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, and Jack Dempsey.

LOUIS BETTER PREPARED FOR RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Louis is better prepared this time.

He probably has less incentive to stop than Schmeling, who is taking a terrific gamble, the Nazi belief in the physical superiority of the Aryans being what it is. How badly Hitler would be hurt if his Fatherland would be shot . . . and how he loves the Fatherland.

Schmeling is supremely confident. He must scarcely believe that he can repeat since Louis, whom he regards as little more than a dumb ox. He must know that he will return home with his reputation greater than ever.

His ambition is to regain the world's championship and steal Walter den Linden for the remainder of his days. He will be the most disheartened person on the Yankee Stadium if he fails.

If either Louis or Schmeling has an element of greatness it rests on his punching power. Each has the chance of the puncher . . . is capable of turning the tide with one good poke.

The biggest point in Schmeling's favor rests along this line. The Teuton personality can take a solid punish and keep coming . . . or could up until two years ago.

Unless his head has grown harder since, Louis cannot. He could not shake off Schmeling's jarring jolts two years ago, at least. His most vulnerable point then seemed to be his temple. He hasn't been hit hard enough since to prove that he has overcome this weakness and the chances are that he has not.

FIGHTER IN SCHMELING'S FRAME OF MIND IS TOUGH

I repeat that Schmeling is the epitome of confidence. It is hard to defeat a fellow in his frame of mind.

But it must also be remembered that Schmeling also took a savage beating in his first meeting with Louis. And 33 is a ripe old age to be hitting the comeback trail. Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett at 35, but Ruby Robert was a freak, and Schmeling is neither a freak or a Fitzsimmons.

It seems logical that Louis will get a faster pace than he did last time.

And a succession of taps on the whiskers of a 33-year-old man in the early going should put the 24-year-old man away in the lead. Then, if the fight goes the limit it is more reasonable to believe that Louis, the harder puncher, younger, and having had it drummed into his thick skull to watch Schmeling's right, should hold his early advantage and perhaps improve it.

Schmeling has an idea that the Dark Angel remembers the terrific thumping he was dealt two years back. His supreme confidence is based on his belief that he has Louis' number . . . that he will put him in his place early . . . and keep him there.

What Louis has to forget is stumbling to the dressing room two years ago . . . a badly bruised boy.

The slightest hesitance on his part will be in Schmeling's favor.

Louis has the ammunition. He must unload it quickly and maintain a concerted fire to the finish.

Here is how they will size up against each other:

Schmeling		Louis
32	Age	24
195	Weight	202
6 ft. 1 in.	Height	6 ft. 2 in.
75	Reach	76
38½	Chest (Normal)	41
42	Chest (Expanded)	44½
17½	Neck	18½
33	Waist	34
23	Thigh	22½
15	Calf	15½
9½	Ankle	10½
15	Biceps	14½
12	Forearm	12½
8	Wrist	8
10½	Fist	12

Has Max Schmeling the Indian sign on Joe Louis? This is what the heavyweight champion has to forget . . . stumbling to the dressing room two years ago . . . a badly bruised boy, swathed in a towel, and aided by a sympathetic policeman and friend . . . the cloak of invincibility removed for the first time by the German.

Anita Weeps As Exit Made English Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22.—The United States champion, Anita Lizana of Chile, weeping inconsolably, made her entrance and exit in the all-England tennis championships at Wimbledon Tuesday. She lost for the second straight year to French Champion Mme. Rene Mathieu, 6-4, 6-4.

When the match was over Senorita Lizana shook hands with the veteran Frenchwoman, curtsied gracefully to the Duchess of Kent in the royal box, then fled weeping through the crowd.

Canada's representation in the tournament was cut in half when Miss Jean Milne of Vancouver was defeated by Mme. J. Pelay of Hungary, 6-2, 7-5. Miss Milne could not cope with her opponent's fast service and netted frequently. She outdrove the European player but repeatedly was passed when she ran to the net.

CALGARIAN WINS

Miss Jean Saunders, one of Calgary, defeated Miss Pat Thomson, Great Britain, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, by hitting the ball hard and accurately.

Ladies' Ball League Leaders Tackle Red-Whites

Army and Navy Pats and Red and White Stores link up for the first time tonight when they meet at the North Edmonton diamond in a ladies' softball league tilt. Pats are the current leaders of the feminine loop.

Although they have yet to turn a win, Red and Whites have been steadily improving and should be about ripe to put a tick in the games won column. Last Friday, playing at Boyle street, they just missed coming home a winner when they dropped a 14-13 decision to Black and Whites.

Pats plan to start Winnie Gallen on the mound, while Minnie Wilson will probably be catching. The North Edmonton club is expected to start Nellie Wynnik with sister Vici Wynnik behind the platter.

Aces Win Opening Lacombe Finals

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMBE, June 22.—Lacombe Aces played off a last inning rally by the Lacombe Flyers in the opening game of the Lacombe softball league playoffs last Monday to emerge with a 9-6 victory. With the game well under control until the final inning, Brooke, on the mound for Aces, blew up in the ninth and let six runs streak across the plate before Flyers were retired. The runs were nearly all tallied on walks.

Women in Japan have neither legal status nor individual rights.

Champion Remains Choice of Majority

NEW YORK, June 22.—The fight that has overshadowed all else in the fistic world for two years comes true at 7 p.m. M.S.T., when Joe Louis, the 24-year-old Alabama negro, defends his heavyweight championship against Max Schmeling, the 32-year-old German ex-champion, at the Yankee Stadium. It will be broadcast over the C.B.C. network.

A crowd of 80,000 is expected to pack the famous baseball arena when the two gladiators shuffle out to meet each other under the bright, hot lights. They will have paid close to $1,000,000 to watch the pair belabor each other for 15 rounds, or less in the event of a knockout.

Louis remains a 1 to 2 favorite in one of the biggest betting fights of recent years, and is the choice of a majority of several hundred experts here from every section of the United States and Europe. The so-called "fight-moth" regards Louis as a shoein, a virtual cinch, and Promoter Mike Jacobs is hoping fervently the title remains in the United States.

It was reported speculators were getting as much as $100 for choice ringside chairs, originally priced at $30. On the other hand, certain of the speculative gentry who stocked up on "ringsides" back past the gate now were said to be unloading at a loss. At any rate, there is no prospect of a sell-out.

BAR CHICAGO MITTS

Schmeling has won one small victory before they enter the ring. The Boxing Commission recognized his demand that Louis not be permitted to wear the Chicago or "Big-thumb" glove the champion has fostered in his recent fights. Both will have their ham-like hands encased in six-ounce Everlast mitts, buttressed by plenty of bandage and tape.

IT DEPENDS ON JOE

The sort of battle it will be depends upon Louis almost entirely. He has been growling for several weeks that he will sprint from his stool and sink Schmeling under a fusillade of blows.

Schmeling, with his right that shocks like an elephant gun, wants nothing better. He figures to go mortally certain to down any fighter who comes to him throwing punches. If Louis charges full-bent the result probably will be known in the first minute. If he takes Max's right, shakes it off and continues to unleash his terrible hooks, then the German's ring career has closed after 14 years.

Pats Beaten By Cardinals Exhibition Tilt

Army and Navy Cardinals of the Edmonton senior baseball league upheld the honor of the male sex last night at Boyle street as they turned in a 12-7 victory over Army and Navy Pats, current leaders of the ladies' softball loop, in an exhibition game last night. The exhibition game was arranged after the Silver Lake entry was unable to play a scheduled league game against the Pats.

But the young lassies made a mighty strong showing, taking a 4-0 lead in the first inning and keeping in front until the ninth when a four run rally sent the Cards ahead.

Babe Dumont, Winnie Gallen and Fay King formed the Pat's battery, while Cards used Rimsdal, Kokura and Green.

SCORE BY INNINGS
Cardinals	000	024	420	—	12	18	R
Pats	400	000	012	—	7	7	7

Rimsdal, Kokura and Green; Dupont, Gallen and King.

TRAIL, B.C., June 22.—Trail Smoke Eaters beat of the scoring threat of the Rossland Redmen to take a 20-18 decision in a West Kootenay Box Lacrosse League game here last night.

The Redmen tied the score at the three-quarter mark and took an 18-17 lead before the smelter team cracked home three inning goals.

Canoe Race Hudson's Bay Trophy Planned

The annual Voyageurs' two-man canoe race for the Hudson's Bay trophy will be held July 1. The race will be run from just below the High Level bridge to the bridge at Fort Saskatchewan, a distance of about 30 miles. It will start at 2 p.m.

Doug. Groof of Winnipeg, Canadian canoe champion expects to be here for the race. The Voyageurs Club will supply him with a partner and canoe. Defending champions are Harry Honey and Ben Lange, both of Edmonton, who covered the course in the record time of two hours, 54 minutes last year.

The event is open to anyone wishing to enter.

The Silver Jubilee is the world's fastest long-distance train. Running from Kings Cross to Newcastle, England, it covers the 232 miles in 198 minutes.

Entries Pour in For Athletic Meet at South Side July 1

Entries are starting to pour in for the men's and women's events for the annual sports day of the field meet to be held on the South Side grounds, July 1 and 2 by committee in charge of arrangements. Some 300 entries are expected.

Lawson Fournier of Pritchet Organ, winner of the aggregate trophy at the last presentation meet is expected to attend. Another expected competitor is George Simpson of DeWinton who may take part in the games. Sutherland is a British Empire games champion.

A second ski meet will be held sometime in the two-day carnival. Bowling events are being held parallel with the sports.

By JACK DEAKIN

BELMONTS outlasted Columbus Club by one run last night in a Senior Baseball League game, winning 8-7 and in doing so dropped the Clubmen into the cellar while they climbed into third place, just half a game behind the second ranking Cardinals.

The Belmonts were hard pressed in keeping out in front. After taking a healthy lead Belmonts felt the Columbus boys crowding them in the last three frames and barely escaped after rallies in the seventh, eighth and ninth frames in which Columbus scored two, one and three runs, respectively.

Belmont bats boomed loudly in the early frames. A six-hit attack in the third produced five runs while another two-hit assault tallied one in the fifth. Belmonts rounded out their score, mostly on costly Columbus errors, with single runs in the sixth and ninth frames.

RALLY THREATENS

While Belmonts went to work with their bats in the early frames, big Herman Loblick silenced the Clubmen most of the way for six innings. Columbus scored only once in the first six frames, getting two hits in the third round. But a 10-hit assault in the last three innings nearly turned the trick for the losers.

Columbus had its biggest inning in the last half of the ninth. They belted the ball for the five hits, scored three runs and had the equalizer on third base before Dave Brockie flied out to short stop. It was the final putout and the last chance for the Clubmen.

After two tight frames the Belmont uprising in the third was surprising. Johnny Lewis started the rally as he smashed one of Scotty Lee's slants for two bases. Jimmy Barker scored him on a single and Eric Dolighan scored Barker as he crashed through with a triple. Goldsworthy's single tallied Dolighan and Harney's single sent Goldie to second and filled first base. An error to Jimmy Brault advanced both runners. Two runs were set up as Loblick came through with a double base knock. Webster struck out and the rally was halted at five runs.

STARTS IT AGAIN

Lewis again started things in the fifth. He singled and was followed to base as Wagner hit safely. An error to Vergette scored Lewis and Wagner "died" on base after three quick putouts were made.

Wagner raced to second on Brault's error in the sixth. He scored on a long fly ball to centre field after gaining third on a play at first base.

Belmonts notched the winning run in the ninth. Horne singled and went to second on a play at the initial sack. A sickly error to Eddie Bergen tallied him.

Lee singled in the third to start Columbus Club's first run. He went to second on a passed ball by Harney and came to third on Terris' hit. He scored as Wagner errored at centre.

BROCKIE HOMERS

Columbus clouters were completely silenced by Loblick until the seventh. Dave Brockie lashed out with a home run over the left wall while Brault singled. Packwood's triple scored Brault.

Terris' single paved the way for the fourth Columbus run. He went to third base on Bergen's single and crossed the plate as Vergette was tagged out at first.

Four consecutive singles, starting with Packwood and continued by Lee, Delmar and Terris brought the Columbus Club within shooting distance of a win in the ninth. Packwood, and Lee scored on the hits while Delmar tallied on two fly balls. Brockie's failure to hit after smashing out the longest belt of the night was the finish for Knyces.

HURL EVENLY

Lee for Columbus and Loblick for Belmonts, hurled a fairly close pitching duel over the route. Both were touched for 13 hits while Loblick had the edge in strikeouts.

Belmont batters all raised their averages somewhat. Every Belmont went for at least one hit with Harney, Loblick and Webster getting two. Belmont distance clouters were Dolighan with a triple and Harney, Webster, Loblick and Lewis with two-ply binglies each. Terris was most consistent for the losers. He nicked Loblick's elbowing for three hits in four attempts with Packwood, Bergen and Lee next in line with two hits in four tries.

Brockie with a home run and Packwood with a triple were the only extra base hitters for the Columbus boys.

Errors cost the game for Columbus. They had five as against two for the Belmonts. Columbus also had more earned runs than Belmonts, getting five as against three for Belmonts.

Despite the seven errors and the 26-hit assault, the game was fast. It took one hour and 40 minutes for the nine innings.

Can Kusek Trim Mr. Bey?

KLEM KUSEK

Klem, the Wrestling Hero, Out After Tough Turkey; Bey Is Training Daily

A healthy and exceedingly young gentleman who is chuck full of dynamite when aroused, and he's up on his toes right now, is Klem Kusek, pictured above. And imagine, if you can, the heavy load of T.N.T. which is expected to explode when Klem goes out after Bilaram Bey, the Tough Turkey, in the main event of Promoter Mike Cutcher's show at the Empire Theatre Friday night.

Can Kusek give the Turk the licking everyone is hoping for? That's the burning question along the wrestling front these days. Everyone awaits to see just what kind of stuff the Turk is made of when he meets up with this rugged individual named Kusek who already has tossed one "bad boy" in Bob Cummings.

Action, a plentiful amount of it, seems certain for the Theatre Friday. The Turk is confident of the outcome. Since coming to Edmonton he has taken straight falls over his victims. He has boasted himself top timber in main events. It's Bey's chance Friday. It's Kusek's one desire to flop him and the fans would like it, too. The bout is a natural so the wrestling should be fire-heat.

In a supporting card the popular "ex-Whiskers" Adams will tie up with that not subdued tough gink named Bob Cummings. A bang-up preliminary will start the matches off at 9:00 p.m.

Carrington Drops Welter Title to Cowboy

CALGARY, June 22.—Gordon Thomson, Black Diamond cowboy, knocked the Western Canada welterweight crown off the brow of Robin Carrington, Calgary and Vancouver, when he scored a fifth round knockout in their scheduled 12-round championship fight here last night.

Thomson, giving away six pounds in weight and several inches in reach, took command of the fight in the third round, dropping Carrington for a six-count knockdown early in the fifth and then finished his man off with a straight left and following right uppercut to the jaw after two minutes and 50 seconds had elapsed in the same session.

Thomson weighed in at 137 pounds while Carrington tipped the scales at 143.

Lie Detector Needed By All Sport Writers

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 22.—A lie detector should be part of the standard equipment of a fight critic. Immediately upon moving into a fight camp the critic would assemble his machine and refuse to believe a word told him by a fighter, his manager or trainer, unless the statement was made while the machine was in operation.

The cost of such a machine would be great, because it could not be a cheap model, but would have to be a rugged one, able to withstand some of the biggest fibs since Benedict Arnold took the oath of allegiance.

I wished for a lie detector yesterday when I sat with Max Schmeling and his trainer, Max Machon, on the porch of their bungalow, high in the Adirondacks and asked questions concerning the fight with Joe Louis Wednesday night.

SUCH ANSWERS!

Deliberately or otherwise they gave me answers that no man in his right mind could accept completely. For example, I asked Schmeling, who is getting gray around the temples, by the way, if a defeat at the hands of Louis, a negro, would greatly alter his status as a national hero in Germany.

His answer was a determined "no," and so was that of Machon.

Schmeling went on to say that he was not even a member of the Nazi party, had no interest in politics whatsoever, and that Adolf Hitler was a much too busy man to be interested in such a minor person as a prizefighter.

THIS WOULD BACK-FIRE

The lie detector would have backfired on two of those answers, I believe. Schmeling isn't a member of the party, but he is interested in politics because he is affiliated with the youth movement in a high capacity, and that affiliation rests, in great part, on his countrymen's belief that he is the greatest fighter in the world. And while Der Fuehrer is not vitally concerned with the fight as a fight (he isn't keen on sports at all) Nordic supremacy is a byword with him.

I asked Schmeling if Joe Louis hurt him in their fight of two years ago. Before he could answer, Max Machon volunteered a reunion." Schmeling echoed him.

Then I wonder just what that left hook to the stomach Louis landed in the seventh round did to Max. If it didn't hurt him, it surely didn't help him.

NOT BOTHERED

And I wonder if Schmeling was telling me the truth when he said that nothing he read about his opponents bothered him; that even before his first fight with Louis he took no stock in the talk of the Brown Bomber being a super hitter, and had climbed in the ring against him with the same feeling he would have had against an unknown fighter?

It's hard to believe that even so stolid and unemotional a person as Schmeling could have read and read of Joe's lethal hitting power without having some reaction.

I imagine the lie detector would have been very useful too around Pompton Lakes, where Louis was training. I would like to bet that it would have given out a loud screeching noise had it been hooked to Louis when he said, so confidently, that he would knock out Max in two rounds. And that it would have all but jumped up and run for its life when Joe said that Schmeling's right hand was not the best right hand he had ever faced.

You know, I would ask the office to get me a lie detector, only I am afraid someone would hook it on me and burn out its bearings the first day.

Cincinnati Boss Forgets Pennants

NEW YORK, June 22.—There may may be dancing in the streets of Cincinnati and mass cheering by the experts, but Deacon Bill McKechnie, wary manager of the Reds, isn't even thinking of his stalwarts as National League pennant winners.

"Sure the club is improved," said Bill yesterday after his boys cuffed the Giants 6-2 and sliced the New York lead to less than two games, "but you can't add a pitcher like Johnny Vandermeer, a first baseman like Buck McCormick and an outfielder like Harry Craft to a club and expect it to slump. They are real ballplayers.

"But I'm not thinking pennant. We want the club up in the fight and I don't think we can miss that."

Tailors of New York City formed the first labor union in the United States in January, 1805.

	PER DAY
1 day, per line	9c
3 consecutive days, per line	8c
6 consecutive days, per line	7c
26 consecutive days, per line	6½c

Contract rates on application.
No ad accepted for less than two lines. Group of figures, initials, abbreviations, etc., count as one word.

CLASSIFIED SEMI-DISPLAY
Classified advertising making use of permitted larger type, rules and white space, are charged by the measurement of agate line (14 to the inch) instead of by the count line. The casual rates are as follows:

One Inch (14 agate lines)
1 day, per inch	$1.40
3 consecutive days	$3.99
6 consecutive days	$7.56

Births, Engagements, Marriages are charged at the flat rate of $1.00 per insertion. Deaths and funeral notices $1.00 for the first 100 words and 1 cents for each additional line (count 6 words to the line). Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices $1.00 per inch per insertion.

Amusement Notices—Displayed in one inch or more space at 80c per inch per insertion. Contract rates on application.

FRANCO PLANS BARCELONA PUSH TO END WARFARE

HENDAYE, June 22—Insurgent advices indicated today General Franco was preparing a fresh offensive against Barcelona in the belief a successful drive through Catalonia now would clinch the Spanish civil war.

Running into impenetrable government defences in the Villarreal sector and forced to retire from the municipal cemetery there, Insurgents slackened their drive on Valencia.

Strict military secrecy cloaked the insurgent commander's exact plans but it was believed by neutral observers the new thrust would come through Lerida directly against Barcelona, or swing through Seo De Urgel and Puigcerda along the French border to isolate Catalonia completely.

Recover Watch

HALIFAX, June 22.—Captain Gerassimos Michalitsianos of the Greek steamship Esperos should have a pretty good opinion of Halifax police efficiency. A gold watch stolen from his cabin when the vessel was here last Christmas was recovered and forwarded to him five months later in Athens.

TENDERS FOR HIGHWAY BITUMINOUS SURFACE TREATMENT

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the Director of the Surveys and Engineering Branch, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, Ontario, will be received until noon, July 8th, 1938, on the bituminous surface treatment of approximately 18 miles of highway in Banff Park, Alberta, on sections of the main highway easterly and westerly of the town of Banff.

The bituminous surface treatment of the highway will consist of a bituminous mix to be applied to the prepared base, and as detailed in the specifications.

Contractors must tender on the complete work and submit on the tender form unit prices covering all items. Contractors must forward with their tender such security as deposit specified in the general instructions to bidders.

Specifications, contract forms, general instructions to bidders and general location plan may be obtained from the following offices:

Chief Engineer, Engineering and Construction Service, Ottawa, Ontario.
Supervising Engineer, Engineering and Construction Service, Banff, Alberta.
Dominion Water and Power Bureau Offices, Calgary, Alberta, and Vancouver, British Columbia.

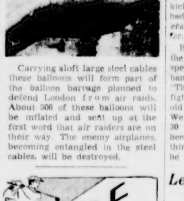

A charge of $5.00 will be made for each set of plans and specifications and contract forms that are taken from any of the said offices.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

CHARLES CAMMELL,
Deputy Minister,
Department of Mines and Resources, Surveys and Engineering Branch, Ottawa, June 13, 1938.

Carrying aloft large steel cables these balloons will form part of the balloon barrage planned to defend London from air raids. About 500 of these balloons will be inflated and sent up at the first word that air raiders are on their way. The enemy airplanes, becoming entangled in the steel cables, will be destroyed.

CLOSING CLUBFACE

Some players manage to get by through compensating for their faults. If they do something wrong in the backswing they happen to compensate for it in the downswing. I say "happen" for it is mainly a matter of luck. They never know whether their struggle to compensate for different things is to be successful. In most cases it is purely accidental.

One of the things it is impossible to control or allow for is the closing of the clubface in addressing the ball or starting the backswing. Such a position is caused by a tightening of the right hand, arm or whole side. Once this side tightens, it runs away with the whole swing. The clubface can only close more as the swing progresses. If it does happen it is done open when it lands on the ball, it is through a complete collapse of the right side, which is even worse than the locking.

The position of the clubface as it is placed behind the ball before the swing is a good barometer of the state of both sides of your body. If the left hand is in control, the face of the club is more or open to the line. In order to help the weak side, you need only see that the striking surface is not tilted forward. Then make sure that if remains open as the club goes back from the ball. Don't worry about its position at impact. If it is correct in the backswing, it will be right when striking the ball if you keep your chin back.

HOOKE ASSERTS ALBERTA WILL BE FORCED TO FIGHT

SYLVAN LAKE, Alta., June 22—"One of these days we will have to fight it out—whether Ottawa is our sovereign government or we are a sovereign state," declared Alfred J. Hooke, M.L.A. for Red Deer, at Sylvan Lake meeting.

He charged "we in Alberta are being governed by an illegal government" and that the British North America Act, the Dominion's constitution, had never been ratified.

"You are being bled at every turn," he told an audience at that summer resort, 115 miles northwest of Calgary, last night. "You pay eight per cent sales tax to the federal government. It is a hidden tax but when a two per cent provincial sales tax is imposed that is open, then a kick is made. Other provinces have provincial road grants made by the federal government, but Alberta, so far, has been overlooked."

He condemned the banks and the present financial system. "God speed the day when we do tax the banks out of the province," he said. "Then will L. Davis, Alberta premier, be able to fight to our last ounce to break the old system and bring prosperity. We will have social credit within 90 days after the Credit Act has been passed. Taxes will soon be a thing of the past and credit will be issued as required."

Lethbridge Plays Calgary Soccerites

CALGARY, June 22.—Lethbridge will play Calgary Callies here on Saturday, June 25 in the Alberta semi-final of the 1938 Dominion soccer playdowns according to announcement made by Football Association officials here last night.

The winner will play Edmonton Civics on Saturday, July 2, probably in Calgary.

CITY POLICE ARE REVIEWED BY VISITORS

1,500 Watch As Force Goes Through Drill For Police Chiefs

Smartly attired in their new uniforms, members of Edmonton's city police force went on parade and drill inspection in the Prince of Wales Armories Tuesday night before 1,500 citizens of Edmonton and the 60 chiefs attending the Chief Constables' convention and gave Edmonton plenty of reason to be proud of its policemen.

Under the direction of Sergeant-Major Alex Riddle, their buttons brightly shined and uniforms as neatly pressed as a crack troop of guards, 50 of Edmonton's best marched and drilled with precision to the music of the 49th battalion's pipe band.

MEN CONGRATULATED

At the conclusion of the drill inspection Chief Constable George Taylor of Prince Arthur, president of the Association, congratulated them on their fine appearance. Other chiefs expressed their pleasure at the fine exhibition and J. A. Grant, Chief Inspector of Highway Patrols for the Ontario Provincial Police, claimed that it "was as fine an exhibition of drilling and as fine a collection of men as I have ever seen."

The show included boxing matches between Constables Gerry McPeake and Duncan McLean, and Ray Gerlitz and Fred Wynn.

One of the highlights of the evening was an exhibition of jujitsu, given by Lance Corporal H. Simoneau, Detachment Instructor in jujitsu for the R.C.M.P. and Constable H. Forbes of the R.C.M.P.

CROWD DELIGHTED

The large crowd of spectators watched with wonder at the flips and twists executed by the two men as they demonstrated the various holds.

Headline attraction of the evening was an exhibition of hand-balancing and tumbling put on by three students from Jackson's gymnasium, George Jackson, Ian MacDonald and Frank Dunk. Showing amazing timing and agility, the three young athletes put on a show which brought continued applause from visitors and citizens alike.

Real War?

GENERAL UGAKI

TOKYO, June 22—Toyko newspapers today reported Japan's foreign minister, General Kazushige Ugaki, was considering a formal declaration of war against China after almost a year of undeclared conflict in the Far East.

Barbara Hutton Guards Her Son Against Kidnap

LONDON, June 22 — Wealthy Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, the Woolworth heiress, was reported last night by the Daily Mail to have "taken precautions" against a threat to kidnap her two-year-old son, Lance.

The report said Scotland Yard had ordered police to keep special watch at all ports and airports for the arrival of "a suspected person" and had sent out photographs and a full description of the suspect.

Produce Rate Cut Expected

MONTREAL, June 22—K. H. Olive, president of the Montreal Provision Trades Association, said Tuesday he expected the railroads shortly would announce a reduction from 50,000 to 30,000 pounds in the minimum weight of carload butter shipped from the prairie provinces through eastern ports.

Alberta Insurance Act Is Enforced Manning States

Series of Investigations Results in Increased Business to Alberta Licensed Companies, Provincial Secretary Says

Enforcement of provisions of the Alberta Insurance Act has resulted in $5,861,539 worth of insurance business hitherto in force in this province with unlicensed insurers, being or in the process of being placed with those who are licensed, it was disclosed on Wednesday by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary.

The Alberta Insurance Act, sections 107 and 108 provides that no person, firm, partnership or corporation shall insure any matter or thing within Alberta in other than licensed companies authorized to do business in the province, except upon giving notice in writing to the superintendent of insurance and payment of a tax equal to 50 per cent of the premium paid or payable, or liability assumed. Penalties are provided against any person for infraction of these sections.

In the enforcement of these provisions, the insurance branch, Mr. Manning declared, is undertaking a series of investigations to compel compliance therewith and while these investigations are being conducted in conjunction with other work, they will continue for a considerable period of time until full compliance is assured. Investigations so far undertaken reveal considerable insurance is being placed with unlicensed insurers.

In this connection, it was revealed that the number of firms, partnerships or corporations whose contracts of insurance covering within Alberta have been checked to April 1, 1938, total 37; contracts of insurance examined total 374; contracts of insurance reported upon by declaration total 2355; number of policies found to be with unlicensed insurers total 167 and insurance in force in Alberta with unlicensed insurers totals $5,861,539.

The majority of the aforementioned insurance, said Mr. Manning, has since been cancelled and placed in licensed companies or will be placed with licensed companies upon expiry, while taxes due thereon have now been paid to the government or are in process of collection.

FURTHER CHECK

A further check of this insurance will be made again to assure statute requirements have been met.

In respect to unlicensed insurance, said Mr. Manning, the public should be warned that apart from making themselves liable to payment of a tax and possible prosecution when omitting to report, no deposit is maintained in Canada for the protection of Canadian policy holders, unless the companies are otherwise registered by the Dominion department of insurance, hence difficulty in enforcement of payment of any disputed claim may be experienced.

Officials of the insurance branch could not be of any assistance in cases of this kind, it is pointed out. On the other hand, licensed companies maintain a chief agent and power of attorney in the province and the public are otherwise protected by strict supervision.

Investigations, Mr. Manning said, are proceeding as rapidly as possible, and in addition to the investigations now being carried on, the branch is undertaking a series of investigations to compel compliance therewith and while these investigations are being conducted in conjunction with other work, they will continue for a considerable period of time until full compliance is assured. Investigations so far undertaken reveal considerable insurance is being placed with unlicensed insurers.

STREET RAILS IMPROVEMENT PLAN TABLED

renewals. Instead of spending money on the city's existing tram system, which is gradually becoming obsolete, the administration should invest the money in a gradual modernization of the system, he argued.

This modernization would include the use of gas or diesel busses or trolley busses. He favored the latter type of machine because it would be operated by city-produced power, was quieter and had a longer life than gas or diesel busses.

Improvements along the line he suggested would pay for themselves over a period of years through increased passenger service, he maintained. He declared that in cities in eastern Canada and the United States where trolley busses were being used, this type of vehicle had resulted in an increase in passenger traffic anywhere from 10 to 25 or 30 per cent as compared to patronage for the tram systems.

MORE REVENUE

If the city borrowed $150,000 from the Dominion government to assist in making the improvements, interest charges and repayment of principal would amount to $9,000 a year. This, he said, would be paid from increased passenger revenue and lower operating costs resulting from the use of trolley busses.

Calling for tenders for the supply of busses did not bind council to the program, Commissioner Gibb stated. But it would be advisable to call for prices as soon as possible, as English manufacturers could not supply the vehicles under a year after they were ordered, providing council decided to buy them.

Ald. D. K. Knott questioned the feasibility of operating trolley busses over icy streets during the winter months.

Replying, Commissioner Gibb and Supt. Ferrier said that the three-axle British machine could be operated without trouble under such conditions. They referred to the use of trolley busses in Montreal, where winter conditions were similar to those experienced in Edmonton and where trolley busses were operated satisfactorily during winter months.

USE PAVED STREET

Ald. Edward Brown suggested that if trolley busses were operated on the city, that they be run along 96 street, which is now paved, instead of 95 street, which would have to be paved if this type of transportation equipment were used.

It was pointed out, however, that if the street were used conditions might be raised by persons residing on east of 95 street.

Supt. Ferrier said that in future the city might find it advisable to give a through service to and from the South Side from Wye to avenue and 104 street, via the 105 street bridge, 97 avenue and up McDougall hill.

An alternative and ultimate service for the Ross Flats district could be supplied through the operation of a belt bus route along 97 avenue, up McDougall hill to Jasper, west to 109 street and south to 97 avenue and then east again, Commissioner Gibb said.

If trolley busses were used on the proposed route, however, Ross Flats service would still be supplied by street cars operating along 97 avenue as far as the Low Level bridge to connect with the bus line, Mr. Gibb said.

Council must make a decision one way or another on the question, Ald. Blair Parsons declared. He thought it would be foolish to spend large sums of money on renewals for the present tram system when the more efficient trolley busses could be operated cheaply with city-power. "Purchase of trolley busses is a step in the right direction, I believe," he said. "For one thing they are much quicker than street cars, and that's a big factor in their favor."

MORE PASSENGERS

Commissioner Gibb estimated that the increase in passenger service would be about 15 per cent if busses were used, owing to quicker and quicker operation. In some parts of the route the increase would be as much as 20 or 30 per cent.

Discussion ended when council supported a motion by Ald. Hugh J. Macdonald that the question be tabled for further consideration at Monday's meeting of council.

Lady Tweedsmuir Will Be Honored

TORONTO, June 22—The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred on Lady Tweedsmuir at a special convocation of the University of Toronto, Oct. 14, it was announced last night. Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, will be similarly honored.

Southeast Zones Of Alberta Given Full Drenching

LETHBRIDGE, June 22.—Southeastern ranch and wheat lands received a drenching in many areas Tuesday night, breaking a rainless period that had caused some anxiety.

An inch of rain fell at the Higdon ranch near Manyberries, 75 at Etzikom and 45 inch at Bow Island. Lethbridge received .10 inch in a three-hour downpour.

The rain cleared the air of smoke from northern forest fires which had reduced the ceiling at Lethbridge airport Tuesday to less than 500 feet, forcing T.C.A. pilots to fly blind from Swift Current, Sask., to the Rockies.

Trade Relations To Tighten Bonds Minister States

OTTAWA, June 22—Trade Minister W. D. Euler, speaking here last night at the annual dinner of the Society of Chemical Industry and the Canadian Chemical Association, briefly mentioned the trade negotiations in Washington and indicated they would lead to a "more complete understanding and friendship" between Canada, the United Kingdom and United States.
